MACHINE BURNS

Two Appleton Schoolboys Hit by Auto, Suffer Broken Legs

A 16-year-old Oshkosh girl was killed and 16 people injured in automobile accidents in the Appleton area over the weekend.

Miss Doris Norkowski, 16, 1933 Oregon street, Oshkosh, was fatally injured when the car in which she was riding, driven by John Naleway, 22, 701 Milwaukee street, Menasha, left Winnebago County Trunk A one mile north of the state hospital, crashed into a tree, and burst into flames. Naleway and two other occupants of the car were injured in the accident, which occurred at 9:40 Saturday evening.

Miss Norkowski died at 6:20 Sunday morning in Mercy hospital, Oshkosh. She suffered a brain concussion, a fractured jaw, and fractured face bones.

The victim and the three injured passengers were taken from the burning automobile by George C. Faust, 335 Ninth street, Neenah. They were removed to Mercy hospital by ambulance.

Two young Appleton boys had their right legs broken when they were struck by a car while on their way to school at about 8:30 this morning.

The victims are Donald Kohl, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Kohl, 1522 W. Summer street, and Harold Newton, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Newton, 1418 W. Summer street.

The boys were struck by a car driven by Milton Teske, 17, 217 W. Summer street, as they walked from behind a parked car with a group of other boys in the 1000 block on W. Winnebago street, police reported. They were on their way to Washington school.

Boys to Hospital

The two injured boys were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital. None of the others in the group was hurt.

Naleway, the driver of the car in which Miss Norkowski was fatally hurt, suffered severe cuts and a fractured jaw. Miss Bernice Falkowski, 18, 511 Fifth street, Menasha, received severe cuts and John Ratajczak, 20, route 2, Oshkosh, chest injuries.

District Attorney Lewis C. Magnusen of Oshkosh ordered an inquest into the death of Miss Norkowski and a coroner's jury called this morning viewed the body at the Korrad Funeral home in Oshkosh. The inquest will be held when the other occupants of the car have recovered, Magnusen said. Members of the jury were Albert J. Kusch, W. H. Leisch, Amos Wirtz, John Spanbauer, Paul Schanla, and Arthur Gabbert, Oshkosh.

According to Captain Irving Stip of the Winnebago county highway police, who investigated the accident, tire marks on the highway and shoulder indicated the car was traveling at a high speed just beyond a curve, when the driver apparently lost control and the vehicle left the concrete, crashing head-on into a tree with terrific impact. The car burst into flames a few moments later and was ruined.

Michael Gerharz, 33, 227 John street, Kaukauna, was in St. Elizabeth hospital today suffering from fractured ribs and bruises received when his car overturned early Sunday morning on old Highway 41 at the eastern limits of Little Chute. The Outagamie county highway police reported that Gerharz was driving east when his car and one driven by Edward Jirkovic, 26, 727 Desnoyer street, Kaukauna, sideswiped.

Car Overturns

According to the police report, both cars were traveling in the same direction, the Jirkovic machine being pushed by another. After the collision, the Gerharz car went off the road and overturned.

Mr. De Loyde Allen, 23, 1434 McKinley street, Neenah, received a fractured shoulder blade and her husband, De Loyde Allen, 23, was

Batista Foes are Victors at Polls

Apparently Win Majority in Constituent Assembly of Cuba

Havana, Cuba.—Parties opposed to the present regime headed by Cuba's strong man, Colonel Fulgencio Batista, apparently won a majority in the constituent assembly, incomplete returns indicated today.

With 300 precincts uncounted, results of Wednesday's election showed opposition parties had elected 40 assembly delegates and the government parties 35. One seat remained in doubt and it was said there was a possibility of minor changes in the final line-up.

The new assembly will be asked to draft a new constitution to replace one composed under former President Gerardo Machado in 1928.

But how the results of the election might affect the status of the present government of President Federico Laredo Bru or of Batista, chief of the army, remained of doubt.

Batista has stated he would support any government plan to solve the political problems of the republic. Some political circles considered it likely the armed forces would have less influence on civilian and political life. Under Batista's leadership, the army ousted the government of the late President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes Sept. 4, 1933.

Taber Re-elected for Ninth Time by Grange

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—Louis J. Taber of Columbus, Ohio, was re-elected today for his ninth two-year term as master of the National Grange.

Taber had wanted to retire but yielded to the insistence of the delegates at the seventy-third national convention of the farm organization here. His new term will carry him through the diamond jubilee year of the Grange in 1941.

Delegates also re-elected David H. Agans of Three Bridges, N. J., overseer, and James C. Farmer of Keene, N. H., lecturer.

Insurance Awards Dispute Is Aired At Board Session

Committee Head Denies Charges Made by Supervisor Louis Bonini

Charges of irregularities in the awarding of county insurance, aimed at Supervisor Arthur Zuiches, Seymour, chairman of the insurance committee, were made by Supervisor Louis Bonini, Appleton, at this morning's session of the county board.

The board by a 41 to 12 vote deferred action on the recommendation of the radio committee that the county adopt a 2-way police radio system in connection with the 4-county hook-up, appropriated $8,000 for carrying on the farm-to-market stone and lime project and studied 1940 budget items.

A report of the highway committee recommending the placing of Meado street from Wisconsin avenue to Superhighway 41 in the county trunk system was adopted. The action of the board follows a meeting of Grand Chute, Appleton and county officials recently at which it was decided to ask the board to improve the street as a connecting link between Appleton and the superhighway. The formal request was made by the city council.

Bonini declared that Zuiches was "in no way qualified to head the insurance committee," and Zuiches denied the charges made by the Appleton supervisor.

One charge was that after a $5,000 insurance policy was voted to an Appleton woman agent, who signed a binder, the insurance was given to another agent.

Supervisor Zuiches said that the woman agent was introduced to the committee as a widow with two children. Later, he said, the binder lapsed and it was found that she was not a widow, but that her husband was employed with high wages. To protect the county, Zuiches said, the insurance was given to another agent.

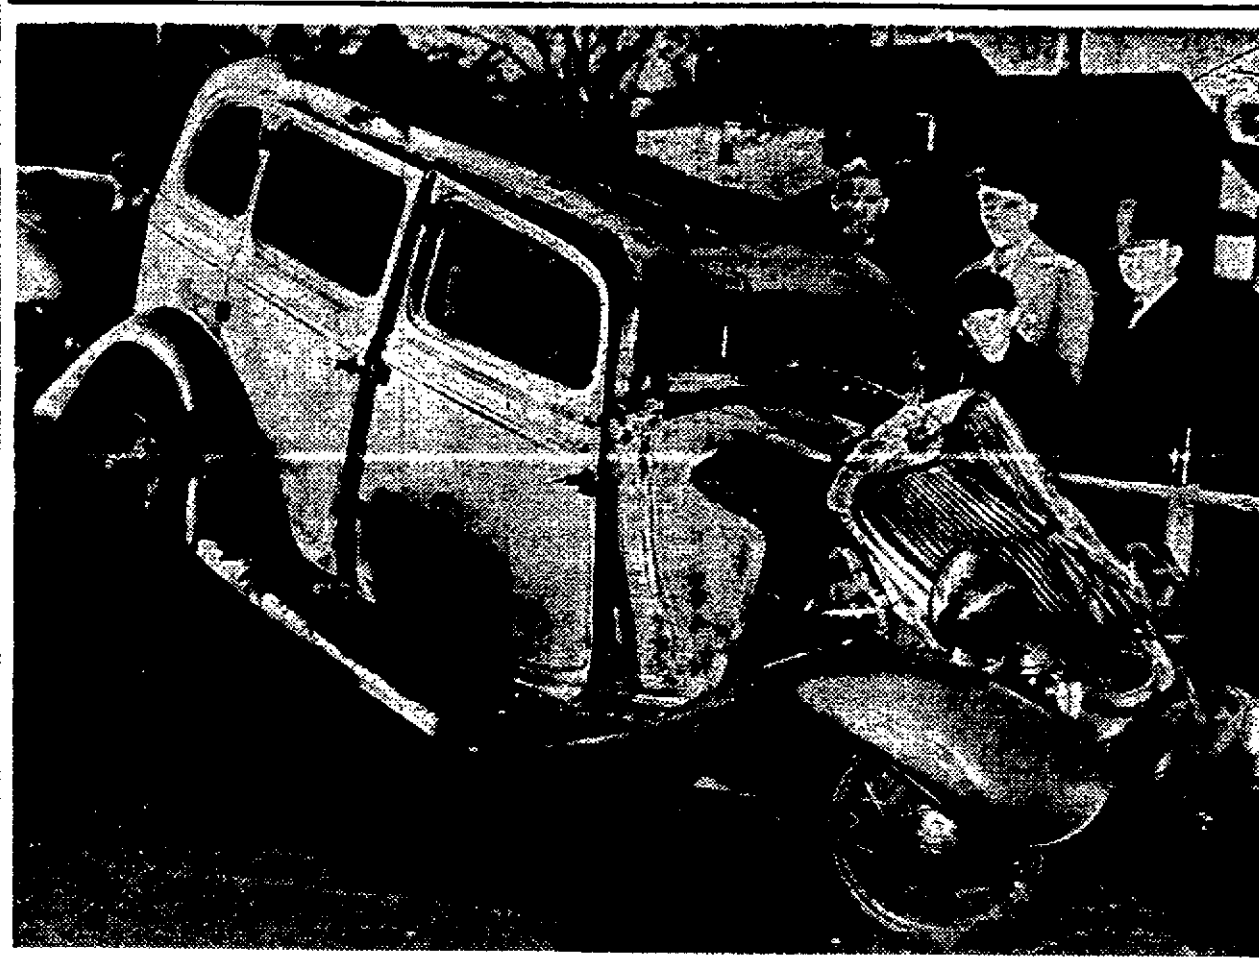

Bonini denied introducing the woman as a widow, but Supervisor L. A. Grunwaldt, secretary of the insurance committee, claimed he did.

The Appleton supervisor charged that after the committee agreed to give insurance of $100,000 to another Appleton agent who had acted as counsel for the committee without charge, the insurance was given to other agents.

Zuiches answered this charge by saying that the agent failed to submit proper rating forms and had made no appearance before the insurance rating bureau to get a correct one. This caused some trouble.

RUINS OF CAR IN WHICH GIRL WAS FATALLY INJURED

Shown above is the car in which Miss Doris Norkowski, 16, Oshkosh, was fatally injured Saturday night. The machine, driven by John Naleway, 22, Menasha, left Winnebago County Trunk A one mile north of the state hospital, struck a tree, and burned. Naleway and two other occupants were injured.

Heil's Emergency Board Cuts $2,000,000 Off State Budget; Defers Payment of State Aids

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison.—The economy ax which has been hanging uncertainly over the heads of state department officials for many months had fallen with a vengeance today as the Heil administration's emergency board in one blow lopped more than $2,000,000 more from the state's operating budget, an act which will cost many hundreds of employees their jobs.

Resolved to go to any lengths to avoid an extraordinary session of the legislature which the governor earlier felt would be necessary in order to eke out the state's slender financial resources, the Heil-dominated emergency board Saturday ordered also an unprecedented prorating of highway and other state aids due the municipalities during the next few months.

Net result of the board's sudden decision will be to conserve the state's cash resources temporarily at least, and to bring the over-all budget within about $15,000,000 of balance for the two year Heil term.

Avoid Deficit

By cutting all state expenditures to the bone—and there was a furore in the capitol today as department heads compared the degree of their cuts and found that some were far more severe and others—and by putting the state's obligations on an installment plan basis, the governor and his advisors hope to avert what seemed a month ago to be an inevitable deficit.

Less than half of the total state budget is subject to the governor's Turn to page 2 col. 3

Two Men Killed In Indiana Fire

Trapped on Upper Floors Of Hotel at Terre Haute; 20 Escape Unhurt

Terre Haute, Ind.—Two men were killed early today as fire swept the three-story, brick Saint Nicholas hotel, a few blocks from downtown Terre Haute.

The two, trapped on upper floors, were Warren Blair, 76-year-old retired railroad conductor, and J. W. Jewell, about 60, both of Terre Haute.

J. W. McCarty of Detroit suffered minor burns. About twenty other persons, driven from the hotel in their nightclothing, escaped injury.

Firemen rescued several. Pat Brann, bellboy at the nearby Plaza hotel, carried McCarty from his second-floor room. Brann learned of the fire when Charges Marshall, night clerk at the Saint Nicholas, went to the Plaza to give the alarm.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in first-floor living quarters of Mrs. Dona McGurty, proprietor, and her sister, Dora B. Calvert. The cause was not determined at once. The two women were not hurt.

The interior of the building was damaged, but floors did not fall.

Disabled Nazi Plane Crashes in Holland; Lone Occupant Killed

Roermond, the Netherlands.—(AP)—A German military plane apparently disabled by Netherlands anti-aircraft guns crashed in a meadow near here today, killing the pilot, the only occupant.

This was the third incident in as many days in which German aircraft flying over Netherlands territory have been fired on.

A communiqué from The Hague said the aircraft flew low over Roermond with the motors shut off before attempting to land.

Reports from Berlin indicated that one German flier was injured yesterday when he exchanged fire with Netherlands craft over Schiermonnikog island, off the northern coast. The German plane sped away.

A similar encounter occurred Saturday when two German flying boats appeared. Both craft headed toward Germany apparently undamaged.

Youth and Girl Dead In Automobile Crash

Fond du Lac.—(AP)—Donald M. Keenan, 18, of Fond du Lac, and Grace Schengen, 15, of Woodhull near here, were killed late yesterday in a collision of two automobiles on County Trunk T six miles west of Fond du Lac.

Mrs. Grace Schengen of Woodhull, who was riding with her husband in one of the cars, was seriously injured. Her husband, Will, and two passengers in the Keenan car escaped with minor injuries.

Mother of 7 Children Found Dead in Garage

Wisconsin Rapids.—(AP)—Mrs. Joseph Skervens, 42, mother of seven children, was found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in her garage in the town of Grand Rapids Saturday.

Authorities said she apparently started the car engine but collapsed before she could open the garage door.

Dies Accuses Communist and Nazi Agents in U. S. of Theft Of 'Important Information'

Detroit.—(AP)—Representative Martin Dies (D-Texas), chairman of the congressional committee investigating subversive and un-American activities, said in an interview today that Nazi and communist agents "now across the ocean" had stolen "important information" of military value from Detroit industrial plants.

Dies was here for a one-day secret conference about such matters. The primary purpose of his committee now, he asserted, was to break up foreign spying and to prevent sabotage in industrial plants.

He cited one case of a lecturer described by him as a Nazi spy who was entertained by a patriotic society, given ready access to numerous plants, permitted to take pictures and to obtain extensive information about industrial processes.

"This information is now back in Germany," he said.

Dies said much information was obtained from Communist party members disgruntled after the German-Russian alliance was announced. He added:

"I intend to talk to approximately 10 of these informants today, secretly. Of course, I can't reveal their names. But I can say that four or five of them are also members of labor unions."

Pittsburgh—(AP)—Industrial leaders in this great steel center scrutinized today a warning from Representative Martin Dies (D-Texas), chairman of the house committee on un-American activities. That Communist and Nazi agents have planned "sabotage, espionage and labor strife" in local mills.

Subversive agents are already at work here on methods to "halt at all costs" the shipment of arms and other war materials to the allied armies, Dies said.

Dies consulted with 15 key men here yesterday as a preliminary to an extensive public hearing he plans in Pittsburgh in January.

Still Deadlocked On Wage Issue in Chrysler Dispute

Conferences Resumed Today in Hope of Effecting Compromise

Detroit.—(AP)—Hopes for early settlement of the C. I. O.'s quarrel with Chrysler Corporation dimmed again today in the face of a deadlock over wage demands.

During the weekend—until yesterday's stalling of negotiations—possibilities were seen of a quick peace to start thousands of workers back to jobs today. The Sunday conference, however, broke up without comment.

Federal Mediator James F. Dewey said the two disputants deadlocked on the wage question in such a manner that compromise probably would be difficult.

Dewey scheduled conferences again today.

The forty-sixth day of the tie-up of Chrysler's production of 1940 model cars, longest labor stalemate in the automobile industry's history, thus began with a pessimistic outlook after a hopeful weekend.

Originally, the C. I. O.'s United Automobile Workers had asked a 10-cents-an-hour blanket wage jump. The union now was reported to have reduced this to 5 cents.

The union also asks vacations with pay, based on a percentage of each employee's annual income, and various wage adjustments according to work classifications.

Since Dewey said only the wage problems remained to be solved, it was assumed that all other issues, including the U. A. W. A.-C. I. O.'s demand for a voice in production rates, had been settled.

Meanwhile, the corporation treated a union request for a "pay advance" for Thanksgiving in lukewarm manner. Herman L. Weckler, vice president in charge of operations, said this "looked impractical unless the people go back to work."

The "advance" had been asked for Chrysler's 58,000 idle employees.

Annenberg Race News Business Dead, U. S. Attorney Declares

Chicago.—(AP)—Attorney Weymouth Kirkland reported to the United States district attorney's office today that M. L. Annenberg's lucrative business of furnishing horse-racing results was dead.

In accordance with his promise to the federal court, Kirkland said, Annenberg had closed the doors of the 28 offices of Nationwide News Service throughout the country.

All wires are down, the attorney informed United States District Attorney William J. Campbell, all employees have been discharged, or taken into other organizations, of office furnishings have been sold and Nationwide is "completely and actually out of business."

Annenberg decided to abandon his enterprise after he and several of his associates and companies were indicted on charges of furthering a lottery. At the time he announced his plan, the government had succeeded in cutting off the wire service furnished by the Illinois Bell Telephone company and was demanding similar action by Western Union and the American Telephone and Telegraph company.

Confesses Conspiracy And Mail Fraud Guilt

New York.—(AP)—Harry A. Kahler, former chairman of the board of directors of the New York Title and Mortgage company, now in process of liquidation, pleaded guilty today to an indictment for mail fraud and conspiracy.

Kahler entered his plea as the federal government called its first witness in the trial on similar charges of the New York Title and Mortgage company, five affiliated companies and four individuals.

Judge Henry W. Goddard postponed sentencing of Kahler until conclusion of the trial.

Witness States Kuhn's Bail Raised to $50,000 to Avert Possible Flight Into Mexico

New York.—(AP)—An assistant district attorney called by the defense today at the trial of Fritz Kuhn testified that the German-American Bund leader's bail was raised from $5,000 to $50,000 last September because of fear he was about to flee to Mexico.

Kuhn is charged with stealing $1,891 of the bund's funds.

Before the witness, Milton Schilbach, testified, Kuhn's counsel, Peter L. F. Sabbatino, moved vainly for a mistrial after Judge James W. Wallace had excluded the public from the courtroom and rebuked Sabbatino for disputing the ruling.

Judge Wallace also upheld the right of the district attorney's office to use in evidence records seized at the bund headquarters last May even though the defense contended the seizure was illegal.

Schilbach testified he asked Judge Cornelius F. Collins to raise Kuhn's bail after Lieutenant William E. Grafnecker, in charge of detectives attached to the district attorney's office, told him he was informed Kuhn intended to flee.

The order, barring the audience, was understood to have resulted from the judge's annoyance at repeated outbursts of laughter and tittering.

"You have nothing to do with the arrangements here," Judge Wallace snapped when Sabbatino objected. "The courtroom was too crowded, and due to that and other things I won't mention at this time, the general public was excluded. I am in charge here."

Sabbatino said then that he wished to have on the record the number of spectators permitted to remain.

"Go on with the trial," Judge Wallace ordered. "And don't say another word on the subject now."

Sabbatino persisted, then demanded a mistrial.

When Judge Wallace denied his motion he called his first witness, William Hess, a certified public accountant, attached to the district attorney's office.

North Sea Mines Claim Heavy Toll During Weekend

Roosevelt Speech Fails to End Third Term Talk; G.O.P. Mapping Farm, Labor Planks

Washington.—(AP)—The mystery of President Roosevelt's intentions as to a third term produced more good-natured banter at the White House today but no further clue to the president's plans.

Asked jocularly by a reporter whether Mr. Roosevelt was trying to fool newsmen, Stephen Early, a White House secretary, replied that he thought rather that the president felt that reporters were asking for advance information on the weather and some times were subtle or too subtle.

Early said that the president intended to leave tomorrow for Warm Springs, Ga., where he will make his annual Thanksgiving day visit to the institution combatting infantile paralysis.

Hyde Park, N. Y.—(AP)—Another wave of speculation over President Roosevelt's political intentions rolled along today in the wake of a speech in which he expressed hope that his collections and papers would be ready for "public inspection and use" by the spring of 1941.

In a bantering mood yesterday at the site of the library that will house the private papers of his public life, the president said he hoped "my good friends of the press" would give "due interpretation to the expression of my hope that when we open the building to the public it will be a fine day."

The remark was interpolated in his address at the laying of the library cornerstone on the Roosevelt estate and interpreted by most reporters as meaning the president Turn to page 2 col. 2

Woman Arrested In Fatal Shooting Of Dallas Lawyer

Confesses Slaying Man Accused of Assault To Murder Her

Dallas, Texas.—(AP)—Brooks Coffman, 39, Dallas attorney charged with assault to murder a woman with an ice-pick, was wounded fatally early today. He died a half-hour after the shooting.

Police said a woman turned two guns on him, firing eight shots from an automatic and six from a revolver.

Miss Corrine Maddox, 26, whom Coffman was charged with stabbing with an ice-pick last May, surrendered to police soon after the shooting.

"I have just shot Brooks Coffman," Assistant District Attorney Jimmy Martin said she told him.

Coffman was under a charge of assault to murder, Miss Maddox, stabbing of Miss Maddox, Miss Maddox, found wounded at a gravel pit near Irving, Texas, recovered after several weeks in a hospital.

$8,000 Damage in Fire at Menasha

Main Street Grocery Store Stock Destroyed by Flames, Smoke

Menasha.—Damage which may amount to $8,000 was caused by a fire at the Kroger grocery, 208 Main street, at 7:30 Sunday morning. The fire apparently started near the furnace which is located in a small room off the main floor.

Mrs. Joseph Pesetsky, wife of the owner of the building and who had an injured ankle, was alone in one of the three flats above the store. John Mueller, Menasha fireman, helped her out of the building.

The flames spread through the store and an alarm was sounded when smoke was noticed by persons on the other side of the street. Heat from the flames cracked the plate glass windows. The gas meter broke during the blaze and gas ignited. Firemen were forced to use masks to enter the building to shut off the gas.

Smoke Causes Damage

The fire was confined almost entirely to the first floor although a small hole was burned in the second. Smoke filled the upstairs rooms of the building and caused considerable damage. Even upstairs the smoke was so thick that firemen were forced to use masks.

William Ruh, manager of the Kroger store, estimated value of the stock at $3,000, most of which probably will be a total loss. The building, which was assessed at $4,500, also was seriously damaged and may be a total loss. Insurance adjusters were expected to start examination of the place this afternoon.

Brooklyn Educator May Be Head of Ohio State

Columbus, Ohio.—(AP)—Ohio State university trustees were reported today virtually agreed upon selection of Dr. James McDonald, a Brooklyn educator, as president of Ohio State.

The board interviewed Dr. McDonald here yesterday. The Ohio State Journal said a successor to Dr. George W. Rightmire, who resigned the presidency in July, 1938, would be made within two weeks and quoted an "authoritative source" as saying Dr. McDonald probably would be given the chair.

However, two other men still were reported under consideration. One was Dr. Wilson M. Compton, professor of economics at George Washington university, while the name of the other was not revealed. Dr. Compton was expected to come here tomorrow to meet the board.

Five Neutral and Four British Ships are Lost

177 FEARED DEAD

English Press Asks Nazis for Sinking Dutch Vessel

London.—(AP)—Mines at least temporarily supplanted submarines as the leading sea menace off the British coast today as the floating explosives added still further to the war's greatest weekend toll for merchant shipping.

The sinking included the 345-ton British trawler Wigmore with a crew of 16 and the 1,267-ton British collier Torchbearer, which were disclosed today. Four survivors of the Torchbearer's crew, reported to have numbered 13, were landed at an English port.

In addition, the sinking of the 4,258-ton British freighter Pensiva "by enemy action" was disclosed today.

It was not immediately clear whether the vessel was a mine victim. Her crew was landed safely.

A total of nine vessels were reported sunk in the North sea during the weekend, with 177 persons dead or missing. The total tonnage lost was 32,000. Neutrals lost five ships to British forces.

The total tonnage of the eight vessels was 27,748. Neutrals were the chief sufferers, losing five ships to Britain's three.

The sunken vessels were:

Simon Bolivar, Netherlands, 8,309 tons;

Grazia, Italian, 5,857 tons;

Blackhill, British, 2,492 tons;

B. O. Bjorlsson, Swedish, 1,880 tons;

Carica, Milica, Yugoslav, 6,711 tons;

Kaunas, Lithuanian, 1,521 tons;

Torchbearer, British, 1,267 tons;

Wigmore, British, 345 tons;

Pensiva, British, 4,258 tons.

Estimated Deaths

Authorities had not computed the full loss of life in the sinking Saturday of the Simon Bolivar, but the number was set tentatively at 140. Eleven were believed drowned or killed by explosions aboard the four other ships.

The admiralty accused Germany of laying the mines, and the British press today raged against the Nazis, stressing the presence of women and children aboard the Simon Bolivar, which was bound for the West Indies from Amsterdam.

(In Berlin, however, German authorities declared "a German mine could not have been responsible" for the sinking of the Simon Bolivar.)

The Grazia was the first Italian merchantman to become a European war casualty.

The Simon Bolivar disaster possibly was the worst to civilian shipping since the war started. Unless the death list of 140 is reduced in the final survey, it will surpass the toll of 112 in the sinking of the British liner Costa Concordia. Some of the 260 survivors of the Netherlands liner told of harrowing experiences between the time two explosions rocked the ship and she settled in water so shallow her funnels showed.

"It was just like hell," a young Netherlands said. "The first explosion blew me down three decks. I saw people blasted dead, just like knocking down nine-pins."

One survivor, a middle-aged man with a battered nose, said some passengers were smothered in their bunks where oil pipes burst, and others unable to get into boats, "slid or jumped into the water."

Bayonne, N. J.—(AP)—A three-way investigation of a terrific explosion that rent the deck of the Standard Oil company's 11,147-ton S. S. J. A. Movinckel was underway today.

Bayonne police, the marine department of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and agents from the federal bureau of investigation sought to determine the cause of the blast, heard for miles around yesterday.

The Movinckel, which docked Wednesday with 100,000 barrels of oil from Venezuela, is operated by the Panama Transport company, a Standard Oil subsidiary, and thus is of Panamanian registry. The oil was unloaded by Friday night.

No one was hurt by the blast itself but Valdemar Peterson, cook on an adjoining tanker, suffered a sprained ankle when he jumped to the deck of the Movinckel.

Detective Offers Proof Costume Is Too Flimsy

Philadelphia.—(AP)—Magistrate Elias Myers asked a detective to appear today when he insisted the costume of an entertainer at a girl show was too flimsy.

Painstakingly the detective folded the "costume" and squeezed it into a match box. The magistrate fined the show manager $125.

State Democrats Favor Roosevelt For Third Term

Group at Stevens Point Votes to Support 'Policies and Ideals'

Stevens Point — (4) — President Roosevelt had the approval today of the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin, which in a meeting here urged that he seek a third term.

After the meeting had tabled an amendment attempt to instruct Democratic national convention delegates to nominate the president for reelection a short time later it adopted a floor resolution by Dr. W. J. Connors of Superior proposing that it become the sense of this meeting that President Roosevelt seek a third term.

The tabled amendment had been offered by John McGonigle of Sun Prairie, as an amendment to an executive committee resolution. The executive committee resolution, which was adopted by the self-styled state liberal group, promised support of Democratic convention delegates candidates pledged to "perpetuation of the policies and ideals as exemplified by President Roosevelt."

McGonigle's amendment was tabled when sentiment was expressed that it might lead to confusion should the president refuse to run for reelection.

Support for President
Gustave J. Keller of Appleton, state president, stated the organization would follow the policy set forth in the executive committee's resolution. He said this pledged delegate candidates to "support Roosevelt-policy delegates, which includes the president if he runs."

"We are going to follow our intention of holding congressional district and state conferences for the selection of Roosevelt-policy candidates," he said.

Keller added that Dr. Connors' resolution did not provide that the Democratic party organization should initiate a third term movement since it merely stated: "Be it resolved—that it is the sense of the Democratic party organization of Wisconsin that President Franklin Delano Roosevelt be drafted to seek a third term as president of the United States."

Keller Presides
The Democratic Party Organization, organized at Oshkosh last April, met yesterday at the call of Keller, who presided. Between 350 and 400 men and women representing 48 counties including Chippewa and St. Croix, the latest to receive charters.

One resolution adopted stressed that the organization was created to harmonize the objectives of the Democratic party in Wisconsin with those of the national administration.

Also adopted was a resolution which advocated control of patronage by local units of the party. It read:

"There has been considerable confusion and misunderstanding in this state as to the methods and procedure heretofore followed in the endorsement and recommendation of applicants for appointment to fill vacancies in the various governmental departments and the need has long been recognized that some orderly method be adopted for the mutual welfare of the government and our party."

Ready to Form Plan
The executive board is prepared, with your approval and consent, to formulate and establish a definite plan that they believe will be acceptable to all concerned. The basic idea of this plan is to give to the various units of our party organization the right to endorse or object to the recommendation of applicants for positions in the public service, within their respective jurisdictions."

Keller asserted that the "liberal" Democrats repudiate coalition and "will no longer tolerate ruling of our party affairs by reactionary state Democrats."

"We won't rest," he said, "until we have an organization in full accord with the national administration."

Keller added that a speaker's bureau was being set up for work in the next election. He read a letter from Charles E. Broughton of Sheboygan, national committeeman, predicting success for the party.

James A. Farley, postmaster and national chairman, was thanked in a resolution for cooperation and suggestion of a financing program for the organization.

Call Inquest in Death of Youth

Body of Farmer's Son Found in Woods North of Iola Saturday

Iola—Sheriff Duncan Campbell of Waupaca said today an inquest will be held Thursday in the death of Carl Christensen, 25, found shot to death Saturday in the woods three miles north of this village. A .22 rifle was found near the body.

Sheriff Campbell said that the young man had left his father's farm near the village of Iola and gone up into the town of Iola for a load of wood Saturday.

He was found by his father, Christensen, at 6:30 Saturday evening in the woods, lying near the truck which was partly loaded with wood. Campbell said that the young man had been shot through the heart and that the rifle lying about two feet away belonged to the victim.

The sheriff said that Justice S. W. Johnson of Waupaca has been appointed to conduct the inquest. Dr. John C. Johnson, Ogdensburg, Waupaca county coroner, died last week.

Predicts Dissention Within German Army

Ripon — (4) — An opinion that dissention might soon break out in the German army was expressed here by Harry Gordon Selfridge, 81-year-old British merchant.

Selfridge arrived unheralded Saturday night in Ripon, his native city, and left yesterday after visiting Dr. Silas Evans, Ripon college president, and other friends.

"Personally I believe that sooner or later, possibly sooner than we think, there will be trouble in the German army in opposition to the political ideas of Hitler and his cabinet," Selfridge said.

"If Hitler and the nazi regime were eliminated," he added, "Goering, a decent fellow whom everyone likes, would probably take charge and remove the nazi policies and readjust Germany. Goering has not been in favor of the putsch in Poland or of the recent war."

Newberry Plant Held Responsible For Inciting Riot

Named in Decision by National Labor Relations Board

Milwaukee — (4) — The Newberry (Alch) Lumber and Chemical company was held today by the National Labor Relations Board to be responsible for "inciting mob violence" on June 4, 1937. Death of a striking AFL employe followed the Newberry incident.

The decision, released here Saturday by John G. Shott, regional NLRB director, was signed by three board members.

The Newberry company was ordered by the board to cease and desist from "assaulting, beating and encouraging violence" against members of the CIO Timber and Sawmill Workers' Union, Local 15, the complainant.

(After the date in question, company union employes voted to transfer affiliation to the CIO from Local 2330 of the AFL United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.)

Basing its findings on testimony taken at a hearing, the board reported that about 300 persons, incited by company representatives, attacked about 100 strikers near the plant, after the strikers, at suggestion of the sheriff, had agreed to leave.

The board ordered the company to reinstate six CIO-affiliated employes and give them back pay in a lump sum. The company also was ordered to withdraw recognition from the independent industrial union of Newberry. A seventh worker was ordered reinstated when work was available for him.

Burglary Reported In Shawano County

Shawano — (4) — Sheriff Carl Druckrey reported today that burglars blew the combination off a safe at the Zachow Elevator and Lumber company, at Zachow during the night and obtained $20. The safe robbery was the fifth in Shawano county in the last two months.

Third Term Puzzle Remains Unsolved actually is enjoying all the hullabaloo over whether he will aim for a third term.

The disclosure that the president's correspondence would be available to students, historians and biographers by the middle of 1941 furnished no real clue to his intentions. It did serve, however, to bring the third-term puzzle to the fore again by leading to conjecture whether Mr. Roosevelt would wish the public to have access to records of the New Deal's intimate workings, if he intended to seek reelection next year.

Into a copper box fitted into the cornerstone of the library, the president tucked copies of newspapers which printed stories that linked power to cut. Huge appropriations of state aids are guaranteed in full by terms of legislative acts. Therefore, it was explained, in order to pay such aids at all, the state must go on a monthly payment basis, a plan roughly similar to that employed by families of moderate means in the purchase of an automobile. Cash payment at the beginning is impossible, but it is believed that if the obligation is spread over several months, the state government can make ends meet.

The cuts were ordered for the last half of the present fiscal year, and the entire fiscal year 1940-41, according to letters sent on the order of the governor by Elmer C. Geisel, acting budget director.

"Only the highway department, which under the law is exempt from curtailment of its expenditures, will escape the economy move of the emergency board," an announcement issued by Heil's office said.

"State aids for schools, pensions, and charitable institutions will not be affected."

Apparently the administration followed no formula in making the new cuts, for there were broad differences in the amounts of reductions which various departments received.

Cut University

Cuts of 5 per cent were ordered for the University of Wisconsin and the teachers' colleges, both of which fought earlier reductions bitterly. Some other departments were more severely affected. Thus the department of agriculture will lose more than $109,000 for the first six months' period alone, including reductions in Bang's disease funds which some rural legislators had alleged were originally inadequate.

The board of control, which dropped a million dollars in its budget as it passed the legislature, will take another 5 per cent reduction, while the public service commission, also cut originally, took a cut of $49,035, and the emergency board's order also provided a limit to its revolving funds. Result is that the commission will be forced to economize; cannot find an outlet for assessments on utilities.

"To prevent serious impairment of the state's financial condition it was deemed advisable to pro-rate the privilege highway tax of $3,705,000 over a period of four months, beginning Dec. 15, 1939. Likewise, the refunds for county trunks due on July 1, 1940, in the amount of $4,440,000 will be paid in four consecutive monthly installments, and the privilege highway tax due in December, 1940, amounting to $3,705,000, will be paid over a period of five consecutive months," the governor's office announced.

"In this manner it was considered by the board that all other aids for old age pensions, schools, charities, and the like can be met when due," it was added.

How the economies ordered shall be put into effect was the biggest topic of conversation among Capitol administrators today. Because it is the governor's frequently reiterated policy not to reduce pay scales, it was pointed out, the only alternative is to prune payrolls by layoffs.

May Increase Fees

The economy order brought the state's precarious financial situation squarely before the personnel of the state government today, in a way unparalleled since the days of the Schmedeman administration in the depths of the depression. How the budget cuts will affect certain state departments which had already suffered drastic reductions remained unknown today. It was recalled that the state university has planned to ask the emergency board for additional funds. Therefore, with a reduction ordered instead, speculation arose on the possibility of a further increase in student fees. The teachers' colleges, faced with a heavy increase in enrollment and appropriations smaller than in any recent year, probably are confronted by the most delicate problem of all.

While administration men were congratulating themselves on solving their dilemma, at least temporarily, by the installment payment device, there were reports that the relief of municipal officials was mingled with resentment. Local officials who made up their budgets anticipating the payment of state

Colder temperatures over the weekend displaced the warm weather of last week in Appleton and vicinity but slightly warmer temperatures are predicted for Tuesday with considerable cloudiness tonight and tomorrow.

Highest and lowest temperatures in the nation yesterday as reported by official weather bureau stations were 65 degrees at Los Angeles, Calif., and 15 degrees at Bismarck, N. D. according to the Associated Press.

aids on a specific date have been concerned about the possibility that the state might default. Over the weekend, the announcement of the pro-rating plan coincided with reports that the municipalities may bring a court test to determine the emergency board's power to change the method and time of payment of the aids due the local units of government.

Federation Chief Wants Public to Pass on Dispute

Would Place Responsibility for Labor Strife 'Where It Belongs'

Washington — (4) — Amid persistent talk of a new administration effort to bring the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. together, President William Green of the A. F. of L. has asked the neutral public to place the responsibility for labor's internal feud where it belongs.

"We believe that an attitude of neutrality toward the disputants in this case who profess to be anxious for labor peace merely serves to shelter and protect the side which is to blame," Green said in a statement last night. "Therefore, such an attitude hinders the attainment of peace."

We are convinced that the facts show the American Federation of Labor did its utmost to prevent the split in labor and has since done everything in its power to effect peace."

Reports have circulated among union officers that an influential cabinet officer would make the new gesture toward bringing the two factions together.

But John L. Lewis, the C.I.O. leader, is known to be opposed to any more conferences unless he can be convinced that a satisfactory settlement will result.

Anti-Trust Law Action
On another stage of the tangled labor drama, Thurman Arnold was explaining why the government felt called on to prosecute some unions under the anti-trust laws.

Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust cases, said any labor union which used legal rights of association "in an illegal way" would face federal court action.

In a letter answering numerous inquiries arising from recent suits against some unions in the building trades, he declared the laws "should not be used as an instrument to police strikes or adjudicate labor controversies."

However, Arnold listed five types of "unreasonable restraint" by unions:

1. Preventing use of cheaper materials, improved equipment or more efficient methods.

2. Compelling "the hiring of useless and unnecessary labor."

3. Enforcing "graft and extortion."

4. Enforcing "illegally fixed prices."

5. Destroying "an established and legitimate system of collective bargaining."

Duluth, Superior Airports Not Sought By War Department

Washington — (4) — Representative Gehrmann (R-Wis.) said today the war department denied it was giving any consideration to utilization of airports at Duluth, Minn., or Superior, Wis., for military purposes.

"There is no plan under consideration at present to convert either airport for military purposes," Gehrmann said he was advised.

"They said, however, that the information I had given them might be of value in any future contemplated operations," Gehrmann declared. He had urged use of the Superior flying field if use of either was being considered.

permen and politicians guessing about his intentions, McNutt told reporters.

"If Mr. Roosevelt decides not to run, the Democratic nominee will have to be acceptable to him."

Politicians generally agree that the farm states will be one of the major battlegrounds in the 1940 campaign. Republicans made marked gains in the midwest state and congressional races last year, and are eager to follow up those victories.

It was learned that Senator McNary of Oregon, senate minority leader, has been conferring with other party chieftains on ideas for strong farm and labor planks.

Survey Shows 131 Seniors Intend to Go on to Schools

48 High School Students Say They Probably Will be Unemployed

A survey made by Miss Mary Eaker, dean of girls at Appleton High school, reveals that 131 of the prospective June graduates plan to continue their education at some institution of higher learning. A total of 276 of the seniors hope to be employed at some remunerative occupation while 48 said they probably will be unemployed.

Colleges or universities are the choice for advanced education of 74 of the seniors. Twelve plan to go to teachers colleges or training schools, eight to business college, seven to the vocational school, nine to enrol as post graduates, five to study in special fields as music or art, nine to enter nurses schools, and seven to enrol in extension courses at Menasha.

Clanking is the choice of work for 41 of the seniors; work in the mills for 39; farming 22, driving trucks or taxis 18, house work 18, office work 18, serving in restaurants 5, trades 7, helping in garages or filling stations 7, beauty schools 4, and dairies or creameries 4. Scattered and undecided occupations complete the total. There will be 453 seniors graduated from the high school in June, according to present enrolment figures.

studying the farm question has just been created. Chairman Hope (R-Kans.) of the house Republican agricultural study committee named a subcommittee headed by Representative Horton (R-Wyo.), with Representatives Allen (R-Ill.) and Dworshak (R-Iaho) as members, to hold hearings at Salt Lake City Dec. 1 and 2 on problems confronting producers in that area.

Still another group giving attention to the farm problems was a subcommittee of the general program committee headed by Dr. Glenn Frank of Chicago.

The executive committee of the Republican national committee will meet here Dec. 7 to plan for the opening of the 1940 campaign, but it will not consider a convention site or take up platform issues.

Democrats have shown little evidence of tool-gathering for platform-making. Leaders who have talked at all on the subject have expressed belief that the Democratic platform would be largely an endorsement of the Roosevelt record.

Flanner Urges Drastic Changes In Relief Laws

Says State Should Face Problem Squarely in Final Report to Heil

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Strong recommendations for revolutionary changes in state relief laws, financing, and administration of public welfare work were laid on Governor Heil's desk today in the final report of Philip Flanner as director of the state welfare department. Flanner's report was a summary of his activities up to the time the department was merged into the new state department of public welfare which consolidates all welfare activities on the state level.

"Faced with a higher relief load in 1939 than in any year since 1935," Flanner wrote Heil, "Wisconsin's relief program is further complicated by the unequal distribution of relief need and of the ability of local governments to finance relief cost, the variations in local administrative arrangement, the inequalities of local standards of eligibility and relief, and chaotic relief laws."

"The lack of an established policy regarding the responsibility and financial participation by the state in general relief has further retarded local units in the development of sound planning to meet this problem," Flanner observed tersely in his last message.

Would Rewrite Statutes

Flanner urged a rewriting of state relief statutes, "most of which are based on principles originating in 1849," he said, an increase in centralized administration, relief planning on a "realistic" rather than an emergency basis, and a cooperative program supported by state and local governments for the "rehabilitation and prevention of the conditions leading to destitution."

"Above all," he said, "the problem of relief should be faced squarely and not obscured by division into minute segments and wishful thinking. In 1930, when the first studies of the relief problem were begun, the state put its shoulder to the wheel of assisting local communities in meeting their legal obligation. The experience of the last nine years, and the continuing problem with which the local governments are faced today, indicate that the state cannot turn back from a responsibility for the general welfare of the most needy group of citizens in the state."

Discussing with an unusual forth-rightness some of the most acute problems in the state relief field, Flanner recalled that while today more than 1,000 local units of government are administering relief, there were only 364 in 1935.

Doubts Economy

"The return to the township basis of administration is directly traceable to the financial situation of the counties when state and federal assistance was withdrawn or greatly reduced."

He doubted that township administration of relief is more economical, and argued that there is no evidence to back that frequently produced argument. Moreover, many counties and towns are looking to the state, and will continue to do so, for help in maintaining their relief burdens.

"Relief administration both on the state and local level has been on an emergency basis, for the last nine years on the assumption that it was a temporary phenomena to which long-time planning was inapplicable," Flanner continued.

"In spite of improvements in business conditions and the development of categorical assistance programs which it was popularly believed would entirely eliminate the need for general relief, there remains a responsibility too great to be ignored."

"More than half of the persons receiving relief would not be directly affected by improved business conditions because they represent families in which there is no employable member, or in which

Predictions on War Entry Have Not Materialized

Calm Over Washington Tends to Emphasize Remoteness—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—More than two weeks have gone by and the dire predictions about America being dragged into the war if the arms embargo were repealed have failed to materialize. In reality, a calm has settled over Washington which tends to emphasize that the United States is even more remote from the European war than it ever has been before.

Something has happened also abroad. History may record that passage of a turning point on the diplomatic or psychology front. There can be little doubt that part of the German strategy was based on the assumption that the work done in behalf of an American embargo in the last two years would not be upset and that the allies would not be able to count on a replenishment of the supply of airplanes if German attack became intense.

Today the go-ahead signal for American supplies means an endless stream of materials for the allies. The leaders of Germany's army and economic machine know the futility of a prolonged fight. There is talk now of dissension in the ranks at Berlin while London talks hopefully of an early peace, possibly before another year.

Economic Factors
Certainly, since the passage of the embargo repeal, the feeling here has been distinctly in the direction of a shortened war. Most Americans have believed that the end of the war might come through internal revolution in Germany and the overthrow of Hitler. This is, to be sure, typical of the wishful thinking on the allied side. Germany is doubtless united patriotically much more in war time than peace time. But the economic factors which caused Germany's defeat in the last war may force an early peace conference without an internal revolution. In other words, Germany may bring about an end of the war by evolution and peaceful transition from a government which the allies say they cannot meet at the peace table to one they can meet.

The most important element in the whole situation is economic. The shortage of gasoline needed for airplanes, the gradual breakdown of the submarine warfare and the enforcement of the economic blockade by strict rationing of supplies consigned to neutral states contiguous to the United States are big influences in the councils of the German high command nowadays. If the war was to be won by Germany, it has all along been believed here it would have to be by a series of quick strokes, the opportunity for the success of which seems to have diminished with the increased allied preparations.

Abundance Of Credit
The allies have an abundance of credit and materials with a storehouse and arsenal of supplies in Canada and the United States. Germany has only a limited supply of fuel for her airplanes and submarines, both of which in time will be conquered by the allies because they have not only the fuel, but the replacement, too. Herr Hitler led the German army into the war on the theory that he could force an early peace. His strategy has failed. Somebody else—perhaps a group of army chiefs—may make German policy hereafter, even though Hitler continues on the scene. So far as the allies are concerned, they will make peace with a government in Berlin which they feel will live up to its agreements, and it is doubtful whether the mere presence of Herr Hitler as a figurehead in the future scene will make any difference, despite all the denunciations of Hitler. It will be noted that London spokesmen constantly speak of "Hitlerism" rather than Hitler.

As prospects for peace loom up, prospects of American participation become even less and less a political issue. Already the Gallup poll shows a 3-point rise in Republican stock in the last month, indicating clearly that, with the disappearance of war, whipped into fever heat by the Republicans themselves in the neutral light, the country goes back to normal divisions on domestic issues.

Credit For Peace
If by chance the war is over before the 1940 campaign begins in America, the Democratic orators will not fail to argue that the embargo repeal, so vigorously fought by the Republicans, really brought peace. Certainly the Democrats are far more eager for the war to end than they were last September, when some of the politically-minded among them, though the outbreak of hostilities abroad, secured Roosevelt a third term. As the war issues tend to grow less and less important, the arguments for a third term likewise are rendered less persuasive.

The expectation of an early end to the war has begun to dominate thinking here. What economic effects may be anticipated from a shortening of the war odds, if any? What will be the effect on national defense plans? For the moment, the administration's statistical output indicates a boom year for 1940 in respect of the war, due no doubt to the stagnation which had brought on low inventories and a low velocity of the war may bring a bit of hesitation, but this underlying trend of the whole nation toward conservatism, which in June, 1939, started giving business men the confidence they had been pleading for, has produced a momentum in business that may not at all be affected by a cessation of war orders.

Democracy Should be Safe From Mob Action at Polls

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER
San Antonio—Having seen at close range the recent antics of the gimmies, drunk on democracy, in California and Ohio, I have begun to taver off the stuff. The Communists discovered our weakness for it a few years ago and told us that Stalinism was 20th century democracy. That hurt the feelings of us who had fallen into a habit of thinking of democracy as just something that guaranteed one man's rights, against another's wrongful doings, and held it to be, all in all, a beautiful thing, like love, and much too good for the likes of the dirty muscovites. But the Communists were right, and they can have 20th century democracy and Stalinism, too.

The procedure in California was strictly democratic. Some racketeers got together with a few dollars borrowed from a criminal lieutenant of the Los Angeles police force named Kynette, now under life sentence to San Quentin for blowing up an enemy's car with a bomb, and began a radio ballyhoo for an old-age pension scene called ham-n-eggs. One of the promoters was a convicted swindler, and a son of a convicted swindler, too; another had achieved a gaudy failure with little people's money in a thrift-investment company; a third had sort of oscillated around in the heavenly company of Father Divine's angels in the local outpost of the Harlem heaven and had written articles on economics for the man who would be God. And so on.

They wheedled pennies out of the aged poor at the rate of $3,000 or more a day, and got enough signatures, and many to spare, to compel the calling of a special election under the democratic system. Twentieth century democracy was clicking. But in their proposition on the ballot they undertook to rescind most of the constitution and many of the laws of California, abolish human rights and property rights and place legislative power in the hands of three men to be appointed by one man who was identified by name and address on the ballot as the one who must become dictator of California within five days, with the right to appoint his successor in the event of his death or recall.

Too Many Words For The Voters To Understand.
That is democracy—the rule of the majority even though the majority pass sentence of death on democracy and abolish the republican form of government by a plurality of a single vote. In this case one-third of the electors did vote against democracy, although very likely none but the Communists on that side had read the proposition through or knew what it was that they were voting for beyond a superstitious fancy that they were voting themselves $30 a week. It is doubtful that more than one in a thousand of the opposition side had read it through, either, for the proposition was 10,000 words long, and persons of that class who call themselves intelligent—as who does not?—after denouncing the ornery ignorance of the pensioners would admit, if cornered, that they had just absorbed an understanding of its iniquities through their pores.

Great economic decisions and disguised schemes to destroy democracy contained in proposals 10,000 words long are not for the people to vote upon. The people are not that intelligent. Not to chisel too fine a point on a blunt truth the people are too lazy to read and understand that much legal language, and in any case they shouldn't have the right to destroy the American republic or any of its component republics through mob action at the polls.

The American system provides for a legislative branch, too, and this ham-n-eggs proposal would have by-passed on the California legislature leaving that body few of its powers, and particularly without the power to pass any law contravening the constitutional amendment.

The legislatures of the states and nation have included some sorry clucks and clowns, cut at their very worst these bodies are much more

Committee Urges Voters' O. K. for Proposed Bonds

Citizens' Group Makes Recommendations for Economy at Clintonville

Clintonville—The report of the citizens' committee on the bond issue to be voted upon Tuesday at a referendum was read, accepted and discussed at an adjourned meeting of the city council Friday evening. The committee recommended that citizens favor the $80,000 bond issue when they cast their votes in the special election. After an investigation of the city's debt of over $100,000, the committee found that the present administration has completed a large number of projects of a semi-permanent nature, the payment of which should be extended over a 10-year period. The projects include the construction of a municipal airport, a sewage disposal plant, lighted athletic field, miles of street curbing and black-topping. Most of these were done with the aid of PWA funds.

The citizens' committee report also included several recommendations for the curtailment of future expenses. Among these are: That aldermen voluntarily reduce their salaries or waive their fees for committee meetings; that a budget be prepared for the coming year to include all expected expenditures; that no major project of any kind involving an expenditure of $5,000 or more be adopted without first being referred to the citizens; that all expenditures voted should be approved by at least two-thirds of the council members; that the council avoid expensive litigation; and that a more business-like relationship exist between city officials. The citizens' committee recently appointed by Mayor A. A. Washburn consisted of Dr. W. H. Finney, chairman, W. A. Olen, Max Stueg, W. T. Luedke, Reuben Lendey, Arthur Peotter and Russell Weller.

Favor Strict Economy
The council carried by a unanimous vote the recommendations that street economy be practiced in the future; that no project costing $5,000 or more be undertaken without submitting the matter to a referendum vote of the people; and that an economy budget be prepared and strictly adhered to.

As a measure of economy it was voted to discontinue the practice of shoveling snow from sidewalks. For a number of years, city employees have been given work at snow shoveling but it was noted that the snow removal program last year cost the taxpayers $3,308. This sum also included the hauling of snow from the downtown streets.

Alderman Henry Schellen, chairman of the poor committee, recommended that a wood cutting project again be carried out by the city. The council voted to do this as it still has about 8 acres of standing wood left on the 20 acre lot purchased last year. Formerly this was a WPA project, but it was not possible to secure one for this winter. Men on direct relief must be given work at cutting 18-inch wood at $1 a cord. They must furnish their own tools and transportation, although the city will furnish a warming shack on the lot. Last year approximately 1,500 cords of wood were cut, of which the aldermen voted to sell 100 cords at $2.25 per cord.

George Benson, Waupaca county director of the WPA recreational program, appeared before the council relative to securing a room for children's games during the winter months under the direction of training supervisors. It was decided to provide the old fire hall in the city hall for a recreational center and that the city appropriate not more than $50 for equipment.

Discuss Sewer Project
Alderman Fred Tanner reported that the public property committee had conferred with D. J. Rohrer in regard to the proposed storm sewer leading from Hemlock street to the mill pond. Mr. Rohrer claims that he owns the land which is shown as Hemlock street on the plat and that he would be subjected to damages if the sewer is constructed there.

The council approved payment of the non-resident tuition charges at the Appleton Vocational school for Harold Hedtke of this city, who recently lost his left arm in an automobile accident.

A tavern operator's license for Arnold Piehl was approved.

Work was completed Saturday on the covering of street lighting posts with evergreen boughs. In the business section of the city, the entire

Country Still Favors Democrat for President in 1940, but Republicans Show Big Gain in Month

BY DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion
Princeton, N. J.—As the political experts search the November election figures for portents of the country's attitude next fall, a nationwide survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion indicates that a slight majority of American voters at this time favor a Democratic President in 1940, but the number has declined sharply during the last month.

Dr. Gallup

At the present time, the survey shows, the Democrats are well ahead in the South and West, the Republicans lead in New England, and an important band of 18 northern states remains politically "on the fence."

One of the most striking facts revealed in the survey is that—despite the defeat of the "Ham-and-Eggs" pension plan, which some observers regarded as a sign of a conservative shift in the West—the Pacific and the western states in general are still strongly pro-Democrat.

A month ago, at the height of the neutrality debate, the Institute found 57 per cent of the voters in a nationwide cross-section in favor of a Democratic victory. From this and other indications of political sentiment it appeared that Democratic fortunes were decidedly on the rise.

And yet, as today's survey reveals, Democratic party strength may have reached its high-tide for 1939 at that time. In the weeks since the ending of the neutrality session the trend has been in the direction of the GOP. In both surveys the Institute asked a carefully selected cross-section of the voting population in each state:

"Which party would you like to see win the Presidential election in 1940?"

The trend of opinion, as shown in the votes of those who have made up their minds on the question, is:

Dr. Gallup
MONTH AGO
Want Democrats to Win . . . 57%
Want Republicans to Win 43%
TODAY
Want Democrats to Win . . . 54%
Want Republicans to Win 46%

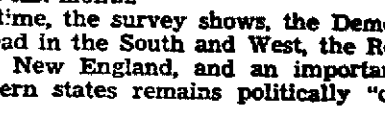

Expressed in politicians' terms, the survey indicates that the Democratic party is now stronger than it was a year ago, when it dropped approximately 80 Congressional seats to the Republicans, but not as strong as in 1936 when 62.5 per cent of the major party voters cast their ballots for President Roosevelt.

The war in Europe and the popularity of FDR's foreign policy have undoubtedly helped to bolster the Democratic party's position at this time. Seven months ago, with the nation embroiled in domestic issues, a small majority (52%) said they favored a Republican President in 1940.

Will the opening of the political campaign and the return to domestic problems reverse the picture again? That is the prime political question for the immediate future, as Senator Taft, Thomas E. Dewey, Paul V. McNutt, Vice President Garner and others prepare to open fire for the 1940 nominations. The Institute will conduct continuous audits of national political sentiment as the campaign rolls along.

Today's Institute survey will give political leaders a glimpse of the problems ahead for them.

For John D. M. Hamilton and his Republican strategists the 1940 problem seems to be (1) to hold the New England states, which are predominantly Republican in today's survey, and (2) to win the lion's share of electoral votes from the area between the Hudson river and the Rockies—outside the South. In this band of 18 states, accounting for 279 of the nation's 531 electoral votes, average opinion is now very evenly divided, the survey shows.

The "Solid South" gives every indication at this time that it intends to remain solidly Democratic in 1940. With more than three Southerners in every four favoring a Democrat in today's survey, it does not seem that the Republican high command can hope to gain electoral votes in this region.

To the Democratic bloc must also be added the West at this time, where 59 per cent of the voters in the survey say they favor a Democratic President in 1940.

Section by section the average vote in today's survey is:

(Electoral Votes) Favoring D. R.
41 New England 44% 56%
118 Middle Atlantic 51 49
88 East Central 50 50
73 West Central 51 49
146 Southern 77 23
65 Western 59 41

$31
The Institute found approximately one voter in every five undecided on the question or deliberately postponing his decision until after the candidates are named next June.

With the South and the West predisposed to favor a Democrat (total of 211 electoral votes in the two areas), the problem of Jim Farley and the Democratic board of strategy seems to center in the same "borderline belt" where the Republicans have most at stake. The area includes both predominantly industrial states and predominantly farming states. Here, unless all signs fail, will be the battleground of the 1940 election.

An interesting sidelight is the fact that the three top-ranking Republican candidates in today's popularity tests—Thomas E. Dewey, Senator Vandenberg and Senator Taft—all come from states in this political arena. On the other hand, of the leading Democratic eligibles, only President Roosevelt and Paul V. McNutt of Indiana represent this general area, while Vice President

Garner and Secretary of State Cordell Hull come from the "Solid South."

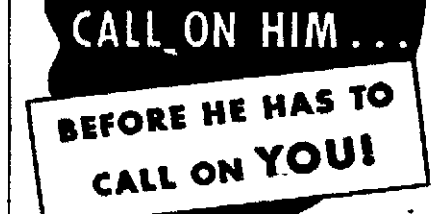

Whether the factor of birthplace will be a prime concern in the 1940 election is impossible to forecast, of course. Nevertheless, it is one of the factors which political leaders traditionally weigh.

Far more important in recent national elections has been the general temper of the American people and the degree of peace and prosperity existing at the time of the election. These considerations—plus the actual choice of party candidates in June—must continue to be the "X" factors in political speculation.

TO THE EMPLOYED MAN WHO NEEDS A CASH LOAN

Read how you can borrow $20 to $300 privately and simply—Repay in monthly installments that fit your budget—Quick service

YOU, like most employed people, probably find that you must sometimes borrow to meet emergencies. If you need only a few dollars for a short time, you get a loan from a friend or relative.

But when you need $50, $100 or $200 you doubtless hesitate to ask others to advance money to you. That's when Household Finance can help you. For Household Finance has a special loan plan for employed men and women faced with urgent money problems.

No endorsers required
To borrow at a bank requires collateral. Or you must ask others to endorse your note—to act as guarantors in case you are unable to repay your loan. The Household plan spares you this embarrassment.

When you borrow at Household you don't have to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign your note. We ask for no salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. No credit inquiries are made of friends or relatives. You get the money you need privately and promptly.

Repay monthly
You repay your loan in convenient monthly installments. Suppose you need $100 and can, for instance, conveniently repay $9.77 a month. Twelve installments of this amount will repay your loan in full. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.43 per month for 20 months will also repay a $100 loan.

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment which fits your budget. See how you may make very small payments if you wish. Or you may pay larger installments and pay up sooner. Note that a $100 loan repaid in four monthly installments, for instance, costs only $6.44.

One rate to everyone
Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

In case of sickness or unemployment Household shows the borrower every consideration. Last year Household foreclosed on only one chattel mortgage for each 10,000 loans—an action taken then only as protection against fraud.

Ask for information
Study the loan and payment table. Then phone or visit us for further information without obligation.

Woman, Alleged Swindler, Faces Larceny Charge

Mrs. Josephine Pelikan, 41, Bound Over for Trial At Cadillac, Mich.

Mrs. Josephine Pelikan, 41, accused by several men, including a former Outagamie county farmer, of absconding with their money, has been bound over to circuit court at Cadillac, Mich., on a larceny charge.

Appearing against the woman in recorder's court, Mike Fortelka, 63, testified she disappeared with his $450 in savings after they had obtained a marriage license in 1936 subsequent to her answering an advertisement in a matrimonial column.

The elderly man testified that Mrs. Pelikan, who he said was known to him as Helen Kovaric, had persuaded him to convert his savings into cash and place it in a safety deposit box under both their names. The next day, he said, she disappeared and the money also was gone.

Judge Fred M. Breen set bail at $2,000 and no date was set for the trial.

The woman also is charged, in a warrant issued here a couple years ago, of swindling Frank Pagac, formerly of Oneida, of $1,800 after marrying him. She disappeared with his money on a trip to Chicago, Pagac claimed. Action against the woman here was held up, following her arrest recently at St. Joseph, Mich., pending the outcome of the other charges against her.

Chemical Tanks are Latest Weapons for Gas Warfare

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor

New York—Poison gas warfare has a new weapon ready for the battlefield.

It is the chemical tank, a squat, speedy, steel-skinned caterpillar, whose insides, instead of guns, are mostly poison liquids and gases.

This tank was described by Lt. Col. Augustin M. Prentiss, U.S.A., chemical warfare service, as one of the most formidable methods of attack yet devised. He is one of the great authorities on gas warfare.

"Chemical tanks have the power," he writes in the chemical warfare bulletin, "to suddenly release enormous concentrations of non-persistent lethal gas in such strength as to readily break through any military gas mask."

The non-persistent gases are those which float in the air, and poison the lungs. Their potency as weapons was reduced greatly by gas masks in the World war.

But the chemical tanks may prove so effective, says Col. Prentiss, that an entirely new type of gas mask will be needed for protection. This mask would shut out all outside air and keep its wearer alive by breathing oxygen stored inside the mask.

European belligerents are supplied with these tanks. But these weapons are only one of several poison gas instruments new since the world war, and waiting for the day which Europe fears perhaps the most.

Another new weapon is the air-planet spray. Tests show, Col. Prentiss says, that low-flying planes in a single flight can cover an area averaging 800 yards long and 250 wide with enough persistent gas to render it untenable to unprotected troops.

The persistent gas is mustard, a liquid, which looks like dirty engine oil. Its breathing effects are small, and not fatal. But at the slightest touch it burns badly, with exactly the same burn as fire.

There is at least one new form of mustard waiting for war use. This is mustard powder. The Germans have this powder, which was described in the chemical warfare bulletin.

Other nations may have the same thing, but have not permitted as much publication of their gas warfare preparations.

The powder does not burn as intensely as the liquid, but tests described by Rumanian army officers showed that seven days after powder was scattered it still was able to poison all organic substances.

Be A Careful Driver

Clapper Believes Third Term Question Should be Settled

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—As all well know who attend President Roosevelt's semi-weekly press conferences, he is fond of lecturing the newspaper correspondents about their accuracy. Speculation concerning his activities brings quick repudiation. Many are the newspaper reporters who have had their dispatches referred to in White House press conferences as "just a newspaper story," a "Monday morning story," or "a sewing circle story."

On the occasion of what the White House considered a serious offense, the reporter has been advised to consult the president or to "ask Steve" before "going out on a limb." Never in my 20 years here have newspaper reporters received as much advice as to how to do their work, and as much warning against light-fingered handling of important news situations, as in this administration.

Not that I mind. None of us mind very much. But it is a little odd, after having religiously attended the White House school of journalism, to note coming out of Hyde park a shower of newspaper dispatches all reading substantially as the one before me, which says:

"President Roosevelt said today with a laugh that he deliberately led reporters astray Wednesday on speculation on possibilities that he might seek a third term."

"At a press conference he said he purposely inserted a sentence in the speech he delivered at the cornerstone laying of the Jefferson memorial in Washington for the effect it would have on newspapermen."

"The effect, he said, was terrific—as funny as a crutch."

The interpolated sentence, which Mr. Roosevelt thought was so funny, was this: "I hope that by January, 1941, I shall be able to come to the dedication of the memorial itself."

The gag laid an egg because, except for one or two hair-trigger reporters who weren't thinking, all knew that the reference was completely meaningless inasmuch as Mr. Roosevelt's current term would keep him in Washington until Jan. 20, 1941. The remark was generally ignored.

But Mr. Roosevelt, in disclosing his little attempted hoax, said he watched the faces of the reporters, and they were most amusing, and obviously something terrific was expected. If the president of the United States can squeeze two days of chuckles out of the incident who can object?

Under what other form of government except democracy could you have the head of the regime playing merrily with the question of a matter of such import to himself in a spirit of horseplay is healthy. And if newspaper reporters are not smart enough to take care of themselves in such matters, that is too bad for them.

But the time is rapidly approaching when Mr. Roosevelt will be open to the charge of not playing fair with the American people in perpetuating the uncertainty regarding his third-term intentions. Senator Van Nuys of Indiana already has raised the question. He says Mr. Roosevelt has had time to make up his mind and ought to speak. Some responsible members of the Roosevelt administration have demanded that the president run again. He is in the position of tolerating, if not tacitly encouraging that agitation.

He can be funny about it if he wishes, but he ought to come clean.

Rotarians Will Stage Party for Rural Residents

900 Farm Families Invited to Annual Event Wednesday Night

New London—The sixteenth annual Farmers' Night party for rural residents in the vicinity of New London, credited by Rotary International magazine with being probably the largest and most unique event of its kind among clubs around the world, will be staged by the New London Rotarians Wednesday evening at Washington High school.

Invitations to 900 rural families were issued last week by H. B. Cristy and his committee and indications are the attendance record of last year may be broken again this year as it has been successively each year in the past. Last year the club served lunch to 1,000 guests in the remarkably short time of 45 minutes.

Headlining the program feature this year will be the appearance of Carl Taylor of Milwaukee, executive vice secretary of the Wisconsin Building and Loan league, as the principal speaker.

Entertainment Program
Radio Farm Hands from Green Bay will provide popular stage entertainment, there will be talking motion pictures on universal subjects, a concert by the high school band, and other smaller program numbers. Dancing will be held in the high school gymnasium all evening while the program will be held in the auditorium.

At the head of the program committee is Henry Spearbraker, assisted by Attorney Ormond W. Capener and Dr. F. J. Murphy. L. M. Warner is general chairman. Responsible for the huge amount of eats are R. J. Mevorden, chairman, Leonard Learman, the Rev. H. P. Rektstad and Dr. George Dernbach. With Cristy on the invitations job were Ben Hartquist and Harold M. Zaig. Arranging for the dancing are A. L. Severance and Earl McPeak.

Reception and hospitality will rest with Dr. F. J. Pfeiffer, F. L. Zaig, Fay R. Smith and P. J. Dernbach. Check rooms will be handled by M. W. Knapstein, J. F. Bentz, August Meinhardt and the Rev. F. S. Dayton. Financing is the problem of Thomas F. Fitzgerald and J. N. Jaekels.

In the matter of lunch, the club will be relieved of the tremendous job of preparing some 2,500 sandwiches which will be done by girls of the high school home economics classes. But there is still the task of cutting over a thousand pieces of cake, preparing boilers full of coffee and arranging other minute details for serving more than a thousand expected guests.

The progressive newspaper now takes the van in teaching people how to win friends, how to procure a mate, how to operate a home wisely, how to conduct a business and also rear your children. Just in this case, you will secure a new slant on the helpfulness of the newspaper in solving the serious problems of its readers.

CASE P-107: Susan B., aged 22, is a New England girl. "Remember me," she recently asked in the opening paragraph of her letter. "Well, I'm the girl who first wrote to you because I had a terrible inferiority complex. My one eye was slightly crossed, and I was afraid to accept dates with boys. "You gave me some sound advice which I followed and thus secured a boy friend. "Some time later I wrote you again stating that though my boy friend seemed to like me, he kept on telling me that he had no intention of getting married until years and years later. "You again came to my rescue, and now I am engaged to be married, have a beautiful diamond ring, and the wedding will take place next month. All this within less than a year's time. Many thanks. Forced Development Often Is Harmful to Young Child

Parents seem to me to be unreasonably proud of children who learn quickly from books, or who show a liking for books. Rarely do they seem to pride themselves on a child who uses his hands very well. That is an ordinary to be expected, if not deplored, fact, while a liking for words is something worth while. That would not matter so much if this notion did not so often bring about forced growth, something that never does anybody much good. The children, if left more to their own impulses toward development, would soon show their real trends, but forced development of word activities holds real characteristics back until they become too strong to be held. Then the trouble begins. Many young children memorize easily. They are at the stage where language power is developing. Their language-learning ability is at its height. Parents often mistake this for genius and begin teaching the child poems, hymns, bits of fine prose, little plays, and having the child perform for the visitors. After this step it is a short one to teaching a child to read. "We never forced him. He just asked what the word was and we told him." True enough. And read to him, and kept asking, "What word is this, Junius?" Read what the Red Fox said to the Hen. "With some children this does no real harm. They shake off the pressure and forget about it. They assume an air of indifference and the teaching stops. But there are other children who are harmed by it. These are the quick-learning, easily impressed children who are called sensitive, high strung, and the like. These children feel that something is expected of them in this reading and reciting and strain to produce it. That makes for the nervous, fidgety, easily upset child. He needed to be let alone to develop his language power, the use of his eyes, hands, and the rest of his mental and physical equipment against the day when it would be needed. Our experience points to the first grade in school as the time and place for learning to read. The children learn easily and quickly, and with pleasure under the administration of a well-trained teacher. Those children who were taught before that time rarely do as well. Along with the word recognition that many people think is reading, must go the power to interpret the words, to get the ideas. Along with reading ability must go the ability to read new words and that requires careful instruction in phonics elements. All this needs practice and application, and the trained teacher is the best person to direct that work. Why take the time and trouble to do painfully what can be done easily, and better at the right time, in school? Word-learning is not the only field of such endeavor. The child who has a sharp memory for numbers, the one who has a gift for dramatics, or music, any kind of ability is marked out for forcing, quite innocently, in the pride of the parents. Genius cannot be hidden. If a child has it, no power on earth can deprive him of it. If he has it

Often Better To Play for 2-Trick Set

BY ELY CULBERTSON

There is an old bridge adage (and a good one) that the first consideration of a defender should be to defeat the contract one trick and then try to slaughter it. Excellent as this advice is, however, it is a curious fact that in some cases it is just as logical to play for a two trick defeat as it is to look for the setting trick. Such a case was the following, taken from a recent duplicate match:

West dealer. East-West vulnerable.

NORTH	EAST
A J 9 5	Q 8 4 3
Q J 10	Q 2
Q 10 9	Q 10 9
Q 9 4 3 2	Q 8 5 2

SOUTH

K 6	Q 8 4 3
A 9 8 7	Q 2
8 4	Q 10 9
A Q J 10 6	K 8 5 2

10 7 2

K Q 5 4 3	Q 8 4 3
A 7 3	Q 2
4 5	Q 10 9

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
1 no trump	Pass	Pass	2 hearts
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

East had something to think about when his partner bid a no trump over South's heart. His hand was right on the line between a pass and a raise to two no trump, hence the fact that he chose the conservative course cannot be criticized. South, not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, and playing at match-point, was loathe to quit the auction and surrender to a mere one no trump. This explains his neck-stretching bid of two hearts. West's penalty double, altho close, was logical. West sensed that South was "pushing," as indeed he was, and, naturally enough, West did not dream that North would show up with two heart honors and the A-J of spades over his own king.

West opened his top diamond. Dummy ducked and East's jack was taken with the ace. A low heart was led toward dummy. West ducked on the bare possibility that East might have a high heart honor. The heart ten holding, the jack was returned, and now West took his ace. A second diamond lead went to East's king, and a diamond return gave West a ruff. Now, altho East had deliberately returned his lowest diamond, the deuce, as a signal that he could be put back on lead with the lowest suit, clubs, West decided that two club tricks (the limit to be hoped for) could not defeat the contract; that the only chance was to find the spade queen in East's hand. If declarer had the spade queen it would do no good to collect two club tricks because, even if East returned another diamond, declarer would ruff high, draw West's last trump, and lead a low spade toward dummy, finishing against the king. The spade ace would drop the king and declarer's spade queen would be the fulfilling trick. Thus, since successful defense depended on East's holding the spade queen, West saw no reason to play for a one trick set, and instead planned his play for a two trick defeat. He laid down the spade king. Dummy's ace won, but now there was no way for declarer to reenter his own hand and draw West's trump. He attempted to do so by leading a low spade from dummy, but East hopped up with the queen and played a third round. West got in his last trump, on a ruff, and then led two rounds of clubs. Obviously, if West had cashed two club tricks before leading the spade king declarer would have saved a trick and 200 points.

Store eggs in a cool, dry, clean place. Wipe off any stains carefully and gently with a damp cloth. Do not wash eggs in water unless they are to be used at once — it will remove the delicate outside film which serves to preserve them.

Add 1 cup grated cheese, 1 teaspoon curry powder, 1 teaspoon minced onion and 1 teaspoon chopped parsley to 1 cup of cream sauce and use for serving with cooked rice, noodles, potatoes or macaroni.

Don't throw diseased plants into your compost pile and then use the compost next Spring on the garden.

not, no power on this earth can bestow it upon him. Let the children grow naturally. Give them the full time nature ordained, and their abilities will be developed in full strength. Force them, and you lose them.

Beauty and You

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

Many women who have passed their fiftieth birthday, refrain from using make-up because they feel a bit conspicuous with it on, or have a silly notion that their gray days are over so there is no need to look pretty! They go about with ashen complexion and lips, quite smug in their opinion that they are playing the role of a lady and being as nature intended them to be. Personally, I have no objections if an older woman takes to her years gracefully and does not strive to look twenty years younger than she is. In fact, I prefer women of this age group to look soft and poised and understanding, rather than brittle and strained and bewildered. But I see no reason why every woman should not make herself as attractive as possible, no matter what her age, and no one can deny that a little color on cheeks and lips, perfectly blended to natural skin tone, is to be preferred to a colorless face. If natural pink still tints your lips and cheeks, all well and good, no accent is needed, but if your face is drained of all color because of recent or current poor health, fatigue or worry, I think a little make-up is in order!

On your cosmetic counter is make-up especially mixed for aging skins. The powders are more beige than pink, the lipsticks and rouges are soft in tone and texture, and eye beauty aids are delicate as you desire. Your problem is not whether you should wear make-up, it is selecting the most flattering and appropriate shades and learning to apply it so artfully that your conservative spouse will wonder what makes you grow more beautiful each year! And that can be done.

This Is Your Lesson

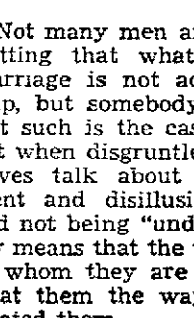

As one ages naturally the skin texture tends to dry and wrinkle. A good many of these wrinkles are attractive and if you do not believe that just take a long look at a woman of your age who has had her face lifted. She startsles

Many Husbands, Wives Want Their Mates to 'Baby' Them

BY DOROTHY DIX

A young man asks my assistance in finding a wife as he has not yet been able through his own efforts to locate a young woman who meets his demands. He says he wants a wife who will treat him just as his mother has always done. He desires a wife who will make his pleasure and comfort her object in life. She must always lay out his clothes for him and keep them brushed and mended; cook the things he likes the way he likes them. She must always be bright and cheerful and attractive looking, and meet him with a smile when he returns home. Above all, she must not pout and get sulky, no matter what he says or does, but must make excuses for him and feel that she is to blame for having irritated him.

I regret extremely that I can be of no help in putting my finger on this passion of wifehood. Indeed, I fear that no such subservient young women now exist; that the wife who treated her husband as his mother treated him has passed out along with the do-do and the phoenix and the other mythical birds. Certainly the modern girl does not contemplate marriage based on the slave and master pattern. She believes in a 50-50 partnership and expects her husband to zipper her up in the back as often as she puts buttons in his shirt, and to make as much effort to make her happy as she does to keep him glad he married her.

Dorothy Dix

Not many men and women are as honest as my correspondent in admitting that what they want in marriage is not adult companionship, but somebody to baby them. Yet such is the case. Oftener than not when disgruntled husbands and wives talk about the disappointment and disillusion of marriage and not being "understood," it simply means that the women and men to whom they are married do not treat them the way their mothers treated them.

Mother has always waited on them, hand and foot. Mother has eaten the neck of the chicken so they might have the white meat. Mother has gone shabby so they might be dressed like Solomon in all his glory. Mother has stayed at home so they might have the car to take out their dates. Mother has never even expected to be treated with politeness or consideration. Mother has always been ready with an alibi for Janey's temper and Susie's selfishness and Tommy's rudeness.

So when Janey and Susie and Tommy get married and find that their husbands and wife expects them to act like grown-ups instead of spoiled children, they simply can't take it. Mother always called Janey's temper "nerves." When Janey stormed and shrieked like a virgin when everything didn't go her way, Mother always said that the poor dear child was so highly strung that she couldn't bear disappointments as people of coarser fiber could. And Mother gumshoed around all of Janey's antipathies and tried to keep everything pleasant so she wouldn't be irritated.

But when Janey married her husband used no such finesse in dealing with her. He called her temper by its middle name and when she raged back and told her what he thought of a woman who didn't have strength of character enough to use decent self-control, so Janey wailed and beat upon her breast and cried out that her husband "didn't understand" her because he didn't treat her like Mother treated her.

Mother always catered to Susie's selfishness by giving her the best of everything and saving her from every hardship because Susie was so sensitive she couldn't bear anything but silk on her skin. Susie was so delicate that she couldn't do any housework—although she could walk miles on a golf course—was the reason that Susie threw up her hands and quit and went back to Mother when she found out that marriage meant work and worry, sacrifice and pulling her weight in the boat.

Mother let Tommy talk back to her from the time he could speak and call her a fool and say any other kind of insulting thing he put his tongue to. But she didn't mind it. She said the poor dear didn't mean it. Tommy grew up and got married and became a man, and to kicking his mother around and saying vile things to her, he cursed and swore at his wife and never bothered to even be polite to her. But the wife didn't treat him the way Mother did. She sued him for divorce and alimony.

So it is pathetically true that a great deal of the unhappiness in marriage is due to both men and women not being willing to face the duties and responsibilities of matrimony, but wanting their mates to spoil them and treat them the way that Mother did.

YOUTHFUL TRIM

Here's a "drop in—I'll be home all day" sort of dress that can gracefully turn from housework to receiving callers. Designed by Anne Adams, Pattern 4253 is young, blithe, original. Every detail will delight and flatter you, from those dashing tucks and buttons at the round neckline to the center front skirt panel, that you may cut on the bias, with pockets to match. The well-shaped yokes form one easy piece with the back bodice. Have the sleeves in either puffed style, tucked-in for smooth fit, or comfortably loose and free. And use a self-fabric narrow belt or a gay ribbon sash, perhaps to pick up the color of the buttons.

Pattern 4253 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 30, 32, 34, 36, and 40. Size 16 takes 34 yards 35 inch fabric.

LEARN TO COOK

Norman, Okla.—(A) A girl who can cook has a better chance to earn money to finance a college education than a girl who is a trained stenographer, says Miss Helen Holbrook, Y. W. C. A. secretary at the University of Oklahoma.

Community sewing rooms have given older women a chance to earn money by sewing, instead of in domestic service, she says. And, at the same time, there appears to be an over-supply of trained typists.

CHEWING GUM

Rockingham, N. C.—(A) It's not exactly a federal project, but 20 beavers are building a dam at a site surveyed by federal engineers near here.

Last year the Soil Conservation service surveyed several dam sites for creating small lakes in this area. The dams never were built, but the State Conservation department has put a score of beavers on the land. They lost no time in getting to work.

TWICE THE FUN

Denver—(A) The law says Colorado citizens will have to observe two Thanksgiving Days this year. President Roosevelt proclaimed Nov. 23 as the day. Colorado's Republican governor, Ralph Carr, proclaimed Nov. 30.

Attorney General Byron G. Rogers says holidays proclaimed by either the President or the governor become legal ones. So banks, schools and public institutions may close on two Thursdays.

TURN'S OTHER CHECK

Fuelbo, Colo.—(A) A woman watched from the window of her mountain cabin as a carload of ladies from the city overran her property and began gathering autumn leaves, breaking limbs from aspen trees, bushes and shrubbery.

"Ladies, do you know that some of those leaves you have gathered are poison ivy?" she asked.

And she wasn't fooling. She invited the trespassers to come inside and wash their hands and faces with strong soap, supposed to be an antidote for poison ivy.

Asking for a Wedding Invitation

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received a card to a wedding reception, and my son has also received one. We don't know if it is proper for me to ask for one for my son's fiancée?

Answer: If an engagement has been announced, or is to be announced by the time of the wedding, then his fiancée should be invited—and it would be entirely proper to ask if you may bring your future daughter-in-law with you. Otherwise—unless you are a very intimate friend—the propriety of asking for an invitation is questionable.

Don't wonder and worry about the little details of your wedding. Send for Emily Post's booklet, "The Etiquette of Weddings," enclosing ten cents. Then you will know just what to do! Address Emily Post, care this newspaper, P. O. Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y.

The Creeping Man

by Frances Shelley Wees

YESTERDAY: Convinced that they have come to the University for a purpose and that Michael is holding out on her, Tuck decides to investigate. She invents a pretext for calling on Mrs. Murchison, who formerly lived in their house.

Chapter Seven

FEMININE CURIOSITY

"I THOUGHT I left nothing in the house," said Mrs. Murchison.

"Just this book," Tuck said. "I didn't think the book was important—perhaps it had belonged to your maid. But it had in it a lovely carved ivory bridge pencil for a marker, and I thought you might not like to lose it."

There was a tinge of hot color at the base of Mrs. Murchison's throat as she took "The Bartered Bride" from Tuck's hands. "Thank you for the pencil," she said. "My maid, yes."

"And this pipe," Tuck went on. "If your husband is as devoted to his old pipes as mine is..." she stopped.

Mrs. Murchison had dropped the book. Both hands were at her heart. She was staring at the pipe in Tuck's hand with some terrible surmise in her face.

"The pipe—he has had it studying in Germany—"

"Then I'm glad I found it," Tuck said eagerly.

The woman looked up. "Where have you found it?" she said tensely. "It is never out of his hand."

"I found it in the little drawer just under the leaf for the typewriter—in the big desk in the study," Mrs. Murchison. Tuck replied, "I am sorry if your husband has been searching for it."

She still held the pipe out but the woman did not touch it. Tuck glanced at her sharply.

The woman caught the glance. She moistened her dry lips and straightened her dry hair. "Thank you for it, then," she said, and composedly, took it from Tuck's outstretched hand and stepped back. Tuck took the hint, said goodbye and ran down the steps.

"Now, what's that all about?" she said to herself. The woman's attitude was certainly strange.

That afternoon, when Bunny came off from a holiday relieving at an office, she had something more to add to the picture.

Tuck, almost bursting to tell her of the events of the morning, had gone to the University to meet her and as they walked back through the dim green woodland path had told her of the affair of the pipe.

"She had a terribly frightened look, Bunny—surprised and frightened. Now why? Why should the sight of an old pipe your husband had left behind, even if he had it ever since he was a student in Germany—why should that upset a woman so?"

"I don't think it was the pipe that upset her," Bunny said slowly. "I think it was the fact of your having it."

"What do you mean, Bunny?"

"Why—I thought I'd do a little sleuthing too. So I telephoned the University and asked for Dr. Murchison, and she broke off suddenly and looked at Tuck. 'You remember, Tuck, that Higgins was quite willing to tell where Mrs. Murchison was, but when it came to Dr. Murchison himself he wiggled and squirmed.'"

"Yes—and Michael, right after he had finished saying that he didn't know a thing about the Murchisons, asked where Dr. Murchison was! How did he know Murchison was a doctor? That's what made me suspect Michael—Bunny—that's right. He's the man the mystery's about."

"My idea too."

"What did they say at the University?"

"Said he was off on a business trip and they didn't have his address. So I phoned his wife."

"Bunny—go on!"

"Well—Bunny stopped, pulled off her hat and lifted her face to the cool evening breeze — 'Well — I thought I'd better be a little wary—' as I said in the customs Office — and had a box of books for Dr. Murchison and that there was duty on them!"

"Go on, Bunny—you're exasperating."

"Yes, dear. And I asked for Dr. Murchison's address to notify him."

"And what did she say?"

"Well, she waited a little while before she answered me, and then she said she'd tell him herself."

"Oh," Tuck said disappointedly. "I thought maybe... I didn't know..."

"Me too," Bunny agreed. "But wait a minute, I said, 'How soon can you let us know? Because if he doesn't clear them in a week we've got to send them back.'"

"Yes?"

"And she said, very slowly—'Send them back then. I cannot get an answer in a week.'"

Nocturnal Prowling

That night, falling to sleep late, Tuck dreamed of walking past a gigantic rock-crusher, which rumbled menacingly and then fell suddenly across her feet. When she struggled to dislodge it, she awoke, to find Agamemnon purring happily and digging his claws into the eiderdown over her knees. She reached down, slapped his paws, patted his head and composed herself to sleep again when an idea struck her which awakened her like a dash of ice water.

What was the cat doing here? She remembered distinctly putting him out herself after all the Public Interest to Be Consulted on Coal Prices, Bolles Told

Washington—(AP)—Representative Bolles (R-Wis.) was advised by the bituminous coal division today that prices established by the division under the 1937 coal act would have "due regard for the interest of the consuming public."

The coal division letter, over the signature of H. A. Gray, director, was in reply to a protest by Bolles that a proposed 50 cent per ton mine price advantage for coal shipped on the Great Lakes would be injurious to cooperatives and dealers who bring their coal into Wisconsin via railroads.

Gray answered that the matter still was the subject of hearings and that no final decision would be made until a mass of evidence had been studied. Gray also called attention to the consumers' counsel division of the interior department as an agency "available to assist consumers in connection with such matters."

Following protests by the Racine Consumers Cooperative, the Whitefish Consumers Cooperative association, and the Appleton Cooperative association, Bolles wrote both to the coal commission and to the White House.

Swanson is shown at the left with his motion picture camera and the "kleig" lights can be seen at the upper left. The lines and half circles on the floor represent the curbs at an intersection and the cross walk while the uprights are stop and go lights. Their two children, aged four and five years, were uninjured. Mr. and Mrs. Allen were taken to the Theda Clark hospital at Neenah in an Oshkosh ambulance. County police reported that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed when Allen lost control on the curve and took to the ditch at the right side of the road.

Both cars were considerably damaged.

Car Hits Pole

Paul H. Munro, 27, 740 Linwood Place, St. Paul, Minn., escaped serious injury when the car which he was driving left Winnebago County Trunk Highway A at 6 o'clock Saturday evening, crashed into a telephone pole and burst into flames. Munro was slightly bruised and shaken.

Santa Claus Will Make His Debut in Appleton at Big Christmas Parade on Dec. 1

The advent of colder weather brought thoughts of Christmas streaming into the minds of Appleton children today and with them plans for the floats they will enter in the big Christmas opening parade Friday morning, Dec. 1.

The parade will mark the debut of Santa Claus in Appleton, for old Kriss Kringle, with a mammoth, 22-foot sleigh, will lead the parade down College avenue from Wilson Junior High school.

He with the luxurious white beard and gay red suit will set up his "office" on the second floor of the public library and there will hold forth for children of Appleton and vicinity.

The parade will form at the junior high school about 9 o'clock Friday morning, Dec. 1, and proceed down Badger avenue to College avenue and then east about 9:30. The retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce sponsor of the parade and of the appearance of Santa Claus, is offering three cash prizes for outstanding floats.

The floats will be judged in front of the public library by judges who will be selected soon. The only rules for the parade are that children must pull or push their floats, mechanical motivation being ruled out. If a group of children wishes to band together and present a float or costumes collectively, it is perfectly eligible to do so.

Adding color to the parade will be the evergreen arches spanning College avenue which have been erected and which will be lighted for the first time Wednesday of this week.

Santa Claus will be generous in his appearance, the retailers have promised. He will visit business places, churches and other institutions and will visit frequently with children. The parade is not limited to Appleton children. Those living in nearby communities are eligible to enter.

Under the rules action was deferred until tomorrow. The appropriation includes $1,200 for Appleton, $157.50 for Seymour and Kaukauna, $100 for Hortonville, $50 for New London and $25 each for Kimberly, Black Creek and Shiocton.

The board also approved paying half the cost of building the Kemkes bridge in the town of Buchanan. The total cost is estimated at $1,000.

Draft Questionnaire To be Submitted to All State Employees

Madison—(AP)—A questionnaire to be sent to all state employees, with the object of revising job classifications to effect economies, was approved by the board of personnel today after several revisions.

The board, consisting of Roy Reed of Ripon, Mrs. Lulu Nelson of Gransburg, and Bjarne Mjelde of Stoughton voted two to one to eliminate a question dealing with the marital status of employees. It also decided employees could return the questionnaires to their department heads or the bureau of personnel.

Reed and Roy E. Kubista, executive secretary of the Wisconsin State Employees association, objected to the marital question, asserting it could easily be "misused."

"The only question in my mind is the sensibleness of the employees," Reed said. "As long as it isn't going to be of any value to us, I don't see the need of it."

Kubista said employees should have a choice of filing their answers with either the department head or personnel bureau because of a question which inquires about the disagreeable features of the particular job.

Any employee knows his superior or will read his answers he might hesitate to answer that question, Kubista said.

2 Mill Employees are Overcome by Chlorine

Kimberly—Two employees of the bleaching department of the Kimberly-Clark mill were overcome by chlorine gas this morning and taken to the St. Elizabeth hospital at Appleton for treatment.

The men, Theodore Wulterkens, 28, Maple street, and John Van Kassel, 39, Walnut street, were overcome about 6:30 this morning. The attending physician said they are not in serious condition but will be kept in the hospital for several days.

Justice Bureau Has at Least 14 Anti-Trust Cases

Washington—(AP)—The justice department has set no bag limit on dragons, whether they snort bullets or are sheathed in domestic trade agreements.

At present, it is headed upwind on the trail of at least 14 which it puts in the trade restriction class and which it hopes to snare with the anti-trust laws.

So far, it has claimed enough evidence of price hiking or other trade restrictions to go into court with cases in the milk, medicine, natural gas, oil, labor, movie, automobile financing, business machine, aluminum, glass, building and paper industries. Several others are still in the investigative stages.

Many Technical Cases
Many of the cases are highly technical and their outcome hinges on such fine points as, for instance, whether the practice of medicine is a trade or business—with something to sell, and as such subject to the anti-trust laws—or whether, as professional men, doctors live in stratospheric exemption from those laws.

Others are less technical. The Aluminum Company of America is charged with obtaining a monopoly by buying up the main sources of supply for the metal that goes into its pots and pans.

In milk, the charge is limiting the source of supply and by that method lifting prices. In natural gas, the charge is buying up a competing pipe line; in paper, holding production down and prices up. In the container industry, it is a charge of allotting production among 27 different corporations. In oil, the charge is fixing tank car prices by pooling purchases to take about 50 per cent of the output of independent refineries.

Justice Bureau Has at Least 14 Anti-Trust Cases

Claims Enough Evidence To Go to Court Against Varied Industries

Washington—(AP)—The justice department has set no bag limit on dragons, whether they snort bullets or are sheathed in domestic trade agreements.

At present, it is headed upwind on the trail of at least 14 which it puts in the trade restriction class and which it hopes to snare with the anti-trust laws.

So far, it has claimed enough evidence of price hiking or other trade restrictions to go into court with cases in the milk, medicine, natural gas, oil, labor, movie, automobile financing, business machine, aluminum, glass, building and paper industries. Several others are still in the investigative stages.

No plans for the building have been drawn. After the pastor, trustees and consultants decide on preliminary plans, various committees of the parish will be organized to assist with the task of completing the school.

Average American Knows More About Foreign Matters Than the Average European

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York — When an Englishman brags about his country (oh yes, he does); he moves backward and sideways into the subject, like an old side-wheel steamer maneuvering into its slip.

"We British," he will say in a well-modulated tone of deprecation, "are without doubt the most bungling people on earth. It's really difficult, you know, to see how the jolly old race manages to survive. But for some most ex-tra-ordinary reason, we always seem to muddle through."

The Frenchman achieves a similar result by the simple expedient of shrugging his shoulders and lifting his eyebrows with that but-can-you-doubt-it expression which represents the last word in the art of pantomime.

We Americans, being impatient of indirection, are inclined to be more outright. In any event, I have something to say about my fellow countrymen and am going to speak right out in meeting and have done with.

Better Informed

I believe the average citizen of the United States is far better informed on world affairs than is the average native of any other country under the sun—no exceptions made.

Agreed that this is a development of very recent years, still the development is there. And that is all to the good in these perilous days when a well-poised mind, capable of assessing situations, is a better safeguard than a brace of pistols.

This view of mine is based on acquaintance with the peoples of many countries in their own home grounds. It is my observation that what is known by the few of the privileged classes abroad is known by that average American of whom we are so proud.

The immediate inspiration for this column was the knowledge of international affairs displayed at the annual meeting of Illinois members of the Associated Press before which I spoke at LaSalle during the week-end. True, this assembly was a lot better than "average," but it did impel me to make the general assertion which has been obvious to me for a long time as I have moved about the country.

With this privileged viewpoint disposed of, maybe you would like to see half a dozen of the many questions asked by my audience at LaSalle.

Question: Suppose the allies should succeed in crushing Hitlerism, what would they put in its place?

Totalitarianism Not Involved

Answer: There is nothing to indicate that they wouldn't permit the German people to select their own form of government, provided this didn't call for retention of Hitler and his peculiar personal code. The matter of totalitarian government in general is not involved in the dispute.

Question: Is it possible for newspapermen to interview Hitler?

Answer: Hitler rarely talks with the press. Louis Lochner, chief of bureau for the Associated Press in Berlin, is one of the few who have interviewed him. It's my understanding that the fuhrer doesn't care much for journalists.

Question: What is the personal relationship between Hitler and Mussolini?

Answer: It is generally understood in well-informed quarters that they have little use for each other. The Berlin-Rome axis has been a matter of expediency rather than of personal regard. Il Duce apparently is growing very cool to that agreement now.

Question: Supposing peace were effected soon on the basis of Hitler's promise he "be good," would he sit still or would he start his old operations again?

Can't Trust Hitler

Answer: The allied answer to that is the basis of their announced war aim to "crush Hitlerism." They say they can't and won't trust his word further—that he never would forsake his ideas of expansion by force.

Question: What is the real role of Russia in this conflict?

Answer: Many observers believe Russia intends to play Germany and the allies against each other, with the idea of weakening them and thus paving the way for the expansion of Soviet influence and Communism.

Question: If Mussolini should throw at least his moral support to the allied side, could he expect any reward from them?

Answer: It seems quite likely that they would be prepared—maybe even have offered already—to make him valuable concessions for such service.

Question: Do the student uprisings in Prague appear to be the prelude to a general Nazi upheaval?

Answer: No. That's an expression of Czech hatred. It does demonstrate, however, that should the allies succeed in causing a revolt in Germany, as they are trying to do, there are conquered people like the Czechs who would be ready and waiting to join.

Man Faces Charge Of Forging Checks

Forest Junction Man Arrested for Calumet County Authorities

Menasha — Menasha police Sunday afternoon arrested Mathias Gussert, 28, route 1, Forrest Junction, Wis., on a forgery charge at the request of the sheriff's department of Calumet county, Police Chief Alex Slomski reported this morning.

The call for Gussert's arrest was issued at 9:30 Saturday night over the police radio system. At 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon a Menasha police officer observed Gussert's car being driven on Main street. He summoned the squad car and Gussert was arrested on Racine street.

Gussert was charged with forgery of three checks, totaling $110, according to Chief Slomski. One was cashed at a tavern at Brillion and two were cashed at stores.

The man was turned over to Sheriff Gerhard Jensen of Calumet county. He previously had been sentenced to serve one to three years in Waupun from municipal court in Winnebago county on an auto theft charge. He was released from Waupun in 1931, the chief said.

Jackie Coogan to Wed Again, Try for New York Stage Career

Fort Wayne, Ind. — (AP) — Jackie Coogan, grownup child screen star whose Hollywood marriage went on the rocks last summer, says he's going to wed again and try for a career on the New York stage.

He disclosed his plans on an overnight stop here between one-night stands in LaFayette, Ind., and Kalamazoo, Mich., in the George Abbot comedy, "What A Life."

St. Patrick's C.Y.O. Forms Bowling League

Neenah — St. Patrick's C. Y. O. has formed a bowling league which will bowl every other Sunday afternoon at the Neenah alleys. The league opened yesterday with matches to establish handicaps.

The league season will get underway Sunday Dec. 3. Father Abner LaQue set the pace Sunday in the practice matches with a total of 559 and top game of 214. J. Oppelt rolled a 542 total and a 201 game.

He said he would marry Harriet Haddon in New York city next fall. The wedding cannot take place, Coogan explained, until a divorce from his first wife, screen actress Betty Grable, becomes final 10 months from now.

Miss Haddon, in pictures three years, now is playing in an ice revue at a New York hotel. Coogan met her in Hollywood. She is 21; he is 25.

Coogan's tour as the blundering schoolboy in "What A Life" will close next May on the west coast. He said he then would go east to play in summer stock and be near Miss Haddon.

"I'm going to settle down in New York City," he said, "and try to get a play on Broadway next fall."

But he hasn't turned his back altogether on his screen career. "That's not," he said, "a closed chapter."

His last picture, finished before, he left Hollywood 10 weeks ago, was "Sky Pilot."

Coogan married Miss Grable two years ago. She sued for divorce last July 29, charging he was quarrelsome and had sold all their furniture. The divorce was granted two months later.

Shortly before her suit was filed, Coogan settled for about $150,000 his action for $4,000,000 he claimed his mother and stepfather owed him from his earnings as a child.

Miss Marion Bazley Is Wed To Roy H. Marston, Jr., in Evening Ceremony at Akron

IN A CEREMONY at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the First Congregational church, Akron, Ohio, Miss Marion Bazley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Bazley, Akron, Ohio, became the bride of Roy H. Marston, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Marston, 636 E. College avenue. Dr. Noble P. Elderkin performed the ceremony at an altar decorated with ferns, palms and candelabra.

White brocade fashioned the bride's gown, which was made with a sweetheart neckline, a tight waist and a full skirt with a train. A tulle veil of madonna type, the front part of which she wore over her face when she walked with her father to the altar, was fastened to her dark hair with a seed pearl clip at each side of the head. Gardenias and lilies of the valley, from which fell a shower of ribbons, made her bouquet.

The bridesmaids, Miss Marjorie Bazley, younger sister of the bride, Miss Mary Evelyn Smith and Miss Ellen Lemmon, Akron, and Miss Louise Marston, Madison, sister of the bridegroom, all wore dresses of white brocade, made just like the bride's, except that the sleeves were short and the skirts floor length. They wore court veils of white tulle, shoulder length, with white ostrich curls on top of their heads, and carried bouquets of bright red carnations. Miss Jane Bazley, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore a gown made like the others but no veil, and her flowers were white and red carnations.

Michael Gochauer, Milwaukee, was the best man and the ushers were J. Treat Thomas, Chicago; Carl Wettenkel, Racine; Ralph Kolan, Baltimore, Md.; and George Robeson, Parkersburg, W. Va. Messrs. Gochauer, Thomas and Wettenkel have been friends of the bridegroom since their childhood in Appleton.

Reception at Club
A reception for 300 guests at Fairlawn Country club followed the ceremony.

For her wedding Mrs. Marston wore a dress of light blue crepe with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. The bride's mother wore moss green crepe and a corsage of gardenias.

Appleton guests at the wedding included, in addition to the bridegroom's parents, his uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Guy B. Marston and Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Ingold, and Mrs. E. L. Bolton, a friend. Captain and Mrs. Douglas V. Johnson, Columbus, Ohio, cousins of the bridegroom, also were present.

For her going-away ensemble the bride wore a moss green wool dress, a green tweed coat with beaver collar and cuffs and brown accessories. She and Mr. Marston will be at home after their wedding trip at the Alcazar apartment, 627 Market street, Akron, Ohio. The bridegroom is a graduate of Lawrence college, where he became affiliated with Beta Theta Pi fraternity, and his bride studied at Akron university, where she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Auto Workers Differ With Homer Martin

West Bend, Wis.—The district council of the United Automobile Workers (AFL) decided yesterday that it "can not fully support" the action of its international president, Homer Martin, in aiding a back-to-work movement in the Chrysler plant at Detroit.

Council Secretary Anthony Doria, Milwaukee, was instructed to inform Martin that the council felt he should have made clear that he was not approving a "speed-up" in automobile production. (Detroit strikers claim that Chrysler was speeding up production without an increase in man power).

Another resolution contended that "other automobile workers' locals in this region, not presently affiliated with our international union, have by their acts repudiated the policies and leadership of their present parent organization or organizations."

The resolution said these locals, particularly a group at Racine, asked the UAW-AFL for assistance.

CIO District Council Planning Local Units

Oshkosh.—The district council of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO) launched plans yesterday to set up a series of local councils in an effort to establish uniform wage, hour and working conditions in competing plants.

Lawrence Carlstrom, district secretary, advised the first council would be made up of 21 locals at 28 foundries in the Wisconsin, Minnesota and northern Illinois region.

A protest was directed to Governor Heil, claiming the state is buying road oil from a company against which the CIO is conducting a strike.

Moose Lodge Extolled By U. S. Senator Wiley

"Another objective of an organization like the Moose," the senator said, "and it is particularly beneficial to this period, is that it stands for constitutional government, for backing up the bill of rights, and bringing into the minds of its membership the true American concept of government."

Louisville Woman Clubbed to Death

Body Found in Isolated Section of City; Hunt Rapist-Slayer

Louisville, Ky.—Police today checked the background and habits of Miss Bonnie May Robinson, 30 in their search for the rapist who clubbed the attractive, red-haired woman to death and left her body beside a lonely path in an isolated section of Louisville.

They apparently had little to work on. Preliminary tests, said Lieutenant John Messner of the police laboratory, showed six hairs which the victim grasped in a hand when her body was found Saturday were not the same color as her own hair.

Chemical analysis of several pieces of cloth, a soiled handkerchief, a pair of freshly-laundried socks and an empty cigarette case, all found near the body, was ordered by acting Detective Chief James Malone.

Miss Mary Helen McGovern, 18, told police, Malone said, that she saw a large, dark-complexioned man walking along the path near Miss Robinson last Wednesday morning, which Coroner John M. Keane fixed as the time of the woman's death.

Miss Robinson, unemployed and described by friends as a quiet woman who had few "dates," disappeared Wednesday after making a customary trip to the family's mailbox.

An aunt with whom she lived said she had not reported the absence earlier in the belief her niece had gone to New Albany, Ind., across the Ohio river, to visit relatives.

Coroner Keane said Miss Robinson was killed with a blunt weapon and that evidence of rape was disclosed by an autopsy.

The body was taken to New Albany for funeral services today.

Pilot, Deckhand are Lost Off River Boat

Louisville, Ky.—The disappearance of a veteran river pilot and a deckhand from a tow boat sent United States coastguardsmen with drag lines today to a section of the Ohio river 12 miles upstream from Louisville.

The missing men were William Daugherty, 63, of Louisville, master pilot, and John Brendel, 42, of Utica, Ind.

Captain Wymond Brasher of the boat, The Duffy, told coast guardsmen the two men engaged in a heated argument while the crew ate supper aboard the craft last night and left the table to carry their quarrel to the starboard deck.

A short time later, Brasher said, Daugherty and Brendel were reported missing. The boat was stopped, he reported, and a search of the river was made after four barges in the ship's tow were tied up.

What's New at the Library

The author of "Alluring Wisconsin," Fred Holmes, has published as his most recent achievement a volume entitled "Badger Saints and Sinners," which is brim full of Wisconsin history and personages. From his background of 35 years of prying into every nook and corner of this state, Holmes relates the adventures of interesting, personages who participated in the making of Wisconsin history. The book contains the stories of statesmen, jurists, doctors, preachers, inventors, politicians and grafters, making its title apt. He knew personally many of those about whom he writes, among them Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., Hamlin Garland, Al Ringling, William D. Hoard, Increase A. Lapham and Brother Dugan.

Turning from his usual humorous vein to a subject which is sure to arouse some controversy, Stephen Leacock is the author of a book entitled "Too Much College" in which he claims that education is eating up life and that the process of equipping young people for their life work involves entirely too much time, effort and money. The fault lies largely in the clumsiness of our educational mechanism, he says, which moves at the pace of the slowest and continually involves reviews and repetitions. Using his 45 years of teaching experience to support his views, Leacock brings into play his kindly humor and charm of expression which have endeared him to so many.

"Jack London and His Times" is an unconventional biography by Joan London of the life of the writer of adventure stories. In his early twenties he was a tramp, sailor, follower of Kelly's Industrial Army, oyster pirate, member of the coast patrol, gold-seeker in Alaska and socialist agitator—all this as a prelude to a career as a writer. It is a combination of a story of action and adventure and a story of a strange and tortured personality.

The extent of unemployment, the complexity of its causes and the variety of methods needed to combat it are discussed in "Wasted Manpower" by Corrington Gill, assistant commissioner of Works Project Administration. He considers the first steps in federal relief, the later establishment of work projects and other government agencies designed to give occupation and purchasing power to the unemployed, and the methods used by other governments toward this end. He concludes with an analysis of the various attacks that must be made on this vast and many-sided threat to modern civilization.

"Here Comes the Mail" by Robert Disraeli is the story of the U. S. postal service by which night and day millions of letters are dispatched to all parts of the globe by planes, trains, cars and boats. It takes the reader step by step behind-the-scenes through the various departments of the post office.

William Allen White, the man who won the Pulitzer prize in 1927 for his editorial on free speech, gives his thoughtful interpretation of the BROOKLYN —(P)—Green Bay's rough and rugged Packers overpowered the Brooklyn Dodgers, 28 to 0, to take undisputed possession of the Western division lead yesterday.

The game was just four minutes old when Arnie Herber shot a spot pass to Don Hutson, waiting unopposed on the Packers' 45, and he scooted across the goal line.

Six minutes later the Packers scored again with equal suddenness. Brooklyn had driven back with the kickoff to its own 43, only to have Ralph Kercheval fumble on a wide reverse and Bud Svendsen gobble up the ball on the 38 for a touchdown.

In the second period the Packers paraded 55 yards for their third touchdown with Cecil Isbell passing and Clark Hinkle running. When they reached the Brooklyn 19, Isbell passed to Harry Jacunski on the three and he leaped across the goal line.

The final scoring drive started with a pass interception by Joe Laws on his own four yard line. He returned the ball to the Green Bay 15 and the march was on. Isbell worked a pass to Hutson good for 13 yards and the same combination completed another on Brooklyn's 1 yard line. Isbell then tried to punch right tackle unsuccessfully and on the following play skirted his own right end for the touchdown.

Paul Engbreiten, Green Bay's 245-pound guard, placekicked points after three of the touchdowns and Isbell made the other by the same method.

Hinkle tried for a placement field goal from Brooklyn's 44 early in the second period, but it failed.

Bays Use Reserves

Green Bay had its second and third stringers in practically all of the final period.

Ace Parker, the Brooklyn star, did not start because of an attack of gripe earlier in the week, but had to take the field in the third period when Kercheval was hurt and had to be taken out.

Brooklyn's only touchdown threat came in the third. A 40 yard run by Ray Carnely to Green Bay's 35 ended in a pass interception, but Kercheval put them right back with a hard gallop to Green Bay's eight. Brooklyn went to the two and finished on the five.

Art Buck Stars as Kenosha Cardinals Defeat Louisville

Louisville, Ky. —(P)—Four touchdowns by Art Buck, former Carroll halfback, and one by Vince Gavre, ex-Kenosha quarterback, helped the Kenosha Cardinals defeat the Louisville Tanks yesterday, 34 to 10, in an American pro football league game.

Only 308 spectators (the eight were from Kenosha) turned out to watch the game, hard-fought and well-played despite almost continuous rainfall.

Under their cooperative plan, the 15 Louisville players reached into their own pockets to meet the game guarantee and expenses.

Kenosha did most of its damage in the first quarter, when three touchdowns were scored. The other two came in the final period.

Buck ran his last point for the game to 28 by making good four placebacks after touchdown.

Cage Teams Will Get Down to Hard Drills This Week

Appleton High Squad Cut To 16; Plays First Game Friday Here

BASKETBALL practice for Appleton High school Lawrence college teams will begin in earnest this week with the high school playing its first contest Friday night here, and the college pointing for a game the first week in December.

The high school cagers held their first scrimmage last Friday evening although only part of the squad of 16 was present. Others were excused because of senior class play that night. The boys handled the ball fairly well but their shooting was something to be improved upon.

Blacher and Powers looked very good at the guards and Burton and Cooper showed a lot at the forwards. Rollins and Lathrop were at center while Schabo and Schurzinger worked at guards and Reider at forward.

Coach Myron Seims has reduced his squad of some 30 boys to 16 and sent the extras to Coach Pete Briesse who will use them on the reserve squad. Briesse, in turn, has cut his squad and the victims probably will be used on the sophomore team.

Members of the varsity squad now are Delong, Kliefoth, Bayer, Cooper, Powers, Blacher, Reider, Burton, Fraser, Lathrop, Rollins, Heid, Bowers, Raddatz, Schabo and Schurzinger. Eventually four or six of the group will be cut in the final reduction.

Appleton opposes Madison East here Friday evening and the week following goes to Neenah. The Fox River Valley conference season opens Dec. 1.

Several members of the football squad were expected to join the Lawrence basketball squad this week. Coach Art Denney can get down to cases. So far he has been instructing a squad of about 15 in offensive maneuvers and developing their wind. This week's efforts will feature offensive play and defense. Indications are, however, that some of the Illinois cagers will be gone for Thanksgiving holiday and that next week the Wisconsin Thanksgiving holiday will cause another interruption.

So far, Schabo and Kirkhoff have been working at the center position with Cape, Fredrickson, Masterson and Trofer at the forwards and Lingle and Smith at the guards. Bueing and Kaemmer will augment the guard candidates this week and Nencki will join the forwards.

DiMaggio, Bride on Honeymoon Tour

Large Crowd Attends Wedding at San Francisco Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO —(P)—Joe DiMaggio, the San Francisco fisherman's son, who batted his way to baseball fame, was off on an automobile honeymoon tour today with his actress bride, the former Dorothy Arnoldine Olson.

One of the biggest crowds ever to attend a wedding here jammed SS. Peter and Paul church and the street and park outside as the two were married yesterday by Father Francis J. Paroline, priest of Joe's parish.

The bride, known in New York and Hollywood as Dorothy Arnold, went to the altar in the arm of her father, V. A. Olson of Duluth, Minn.

Joe, who met Miss Olson two years ago in a New York film studio, had his brother, Tom, as best man. Joe's four sisters, Nellie, Frances, Marie and Mamie, led the march as bridesmaids.

The bridal pair greeted friends and well-wishers during the afternoon and at a wedding reception at Joe's fisherman's wharf restaurant last night, and then started out by automobile for an undisclosed destination.

Detroit Stumbles Before Cleveland and Parker Hall

EAGLES DEFEATED

Davey O'Brien Batters His Passing Record But Team Loses

CHICAGO —(P)—Professional football's glamour boys — of the Davey O'Brien and Parker Hall type — are finding fame in the cash-and-carry game no harder to achieve than in the college end. They are stealing the headlines right and left from the seasoned veterans of the pro game and are proving themselves a big help in championship battles.

The college youngsters also are doing their share toward setting a new attendance mark. Yesterday's four games drew 115,422, an average of more than 23,000.

Parker Hall, pro footballer and all-America back at Mississippi a year ago, turned yesterday's contest into a one-man show as his Cleveland Rams thrashed the Detroit Lions, 14 to 3, dropping the losers from a tie for first to third place in the Western division of the National league.

Hall accounted for both touchdowns with deft aerial pitching, tossing a seven-yard pass to Johnny Wilson for one tally and another to Jim Benton for the second touchdown. Hall connected for 16 passes in 25 attempts and a net total of 149 yards.

But even this performance was below that of little Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian All-American of 1938, who completed passes all over the field, in vain, for the Philadelphia Eagles. O'Brien connected for 21 out of 36, breaking his own league record of 19 completed passes for a single game, but the Eagles lost the game to the Chicago Bears, 27 to 14.

Green Bay smashed Brooklyn, 28 to 0, and is favored to win the western division title. The Packers played Cleveland Sunday, then Detroit in the final game, and the Packers defeated Washington and the Packers to get a tie. The Bears, who have only to play the Chicago Cardinals, were a half-game back of the Packers.

In the eastern division Washington and New York maintained their stalemate for the top spot. The Giants had no trouble disposing of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 23 to 7, and Washington likewise breezed to a 28 to 7 decision over the Chicago Cardinals.

Avalanche Rally Brings 22-19 Win

Marquette Gridders Home After First .500 Season in 3 Years

MILWAUKEE —(P)—Marquette University's football squad broke up today, the players and Coach Paddy Driscoll jubilant over the first .500 season since 1936.

The Golden Avalanche came through Saturday with its fourth victory of the season, 22 to 19, over Texas Tech at Lubbock, Tex., after the Red Raiders had outscored and outplayed Marquette most of the way.

Marquette took an early lead over Tech with a safety and a touchdown. Don Vosberg, an end, blocked Charley Calhoun's punt and the ball rolled back of the Tech goal line where the Raiders covered it. A minute later, Johnny Maltch shot a long pass to Vosberg, who was downed on Tech's one. Fullback Doug Renzel plunged over, but Bob Kennitz' try for point failed.

Tech came back in the first period to score on a series of passes, but the try for point was wide. In the second period Tech scored again and converted.

A pass over the goal gave Tech another touchdown in the third period, but a missed conversion made the score 19-13.

Marquette then took to the air for a 43-yard gain as Jimmy Reggie, son passed to Vosberg. Reggie Coladagelli counted a touchdown on a double reverse around left end. Kennitz converted and it was 19-15.

The winning drive started late in the third period, which ended with the ball on Tech's three. Then Richardson pitched one to Bob Sleski, substitute end, who caught it for the touchdown. Kennitz again converted.

Hilbert Sees Strong Amateur Cage Squad

HILBERT —Organization of a strong basketball team for amateur competition has been announced here with Mike Volmer as manager.

Art Schroeder, high school basketball coach, will captain the team and play guard or forward. Vic Albers will be at guard while others will be Leo Fox, Chilton, formerly of St. Thomas University, "Flash" Baldock, Mullendore of Chilton, Steve Shimon of Reedsville, Thurrow, Eckert, Urban and Belnke of Brillion and probably Mike Schroven and "Crash" Hemauer of Stockbridge. The team is seeking games with the better clubs in the Fox River valley.

Dietzen paced the losers with a 534 series and a 181 game.

Schwalbach's 3-game win over Probst Contractors showed J. Berben's 569 total and 200 game Ed Mader led the losers with a 522 series and game of 198.

JANKOWSKI TAKES A HEADER; PACKERS WIN
Ed Jankowski (No. 7), Green Bay fullback, almost got away on this play, but his feet got tangled up with those of a Brooklyn Dodger, and he crashed to the 40-yard line after a short gain in a National Professional League game at Brooklyn. Leo Biscand (No. 27), Brooklyn tackle, stands there as if he might have pushed Jankowski just a little. The Packers won the contest, 28 to 0.

Bits About Bowling by Dick Davis

THERE SEEMS TO BE a misunderstanding about eligibility for the 5-man event of the FAMILY BOWLING TOURNAMENT suggested by this column and in response to many inquiries we wish to say that the teams do NOT have to be composed of brothers only. Families, to our way of thinking, are composed of fathers, mothers, grandparents, brothers, sisters, daughters and sons and those are just the persons who would make up the teams. In-laws would be barred.

For a time it looked as if we would have to abandon the idea and file it away as unfinished business but it now looks as if there's enough support to warrant going ahead with plans. We should like, however, to hear from more family teams before going about the business of rounding up a tournament committee, getting a sanction and ironing out other details.

Interest in the husband and wife event is running high while the response to the proposed father and son competition has been disappointing. Though the immediate outlook is none too promising, we're secure in our belief that there are many punters intending to get in on the fun and prize money who just haven't taken the time to let us know about it.

A reader has suggested a doubles event for brothers and no more need be said. Another has asked whether it would be limited to Appleton bowlers only. We repeat that it would be open to all residents of Appleton and nearby communities, including Neenah, Menasha, New London, Clintonville, Kimberly, Little Chute, Kaukauna, etc. Howabout making use of the non-obligatory form below?

Friends of the late Walter Hertzfeld, former Appleton man who died a year ago last spring at Shawano, will be interested to know that his three sons are carrying on where he left off. The boys, Bud, 17, Dick, 14, and Jim, 11, visited at the Herman Malueg home over the weekend and tried their collective hands at bowling for the first time since their father died. Because they had rolled with their father in leagues, special matches and tournaments in Shawano and vicinity ever since they were old enough to lift a ball, the lads felt the game wouldn't be quite the same without him and didn't go near the alleys last season.

Yesterday afternoon, however, they went down to the Elks alleys with Mr. Malueg and his son, Gordon, and showed they still know a thing or two about the game. Dick, who has a game of 172 to his credit, grooved a 137 while Jim, the 11-year-old, scored 83. Bud ran into trouble and ended up with a 65. The trio improved on its marks in the second game.

Ole Gossens, a bowler of more than 20 years, can't remember when he hit lower than 396, a series he recently chalked up on the Industrial league at Arcade alleys. He collected 14 splits over the 3-game route.

Continuing our jaunts to local alleys to find out who the better bowlers are on the basis of their league averages, we found a host of keggers powering over the 180 mark at Elks alleys though the season is yet young. The topflighters and their averages follow:

Sacred Heart '11' Will be Honored

Catholic School Gridders To be Feted at Dinner Wednesday

The Dads and Mothers of Sacred Heart football players of this fall will give members of the squad a dinner in recognition of their efforts at 6 o'clock Wednesday night at Sacred Heart hall.

Efforts are being made to secure Mark Catlin, former Lawrence college coach and a famous griddier in his day, as a speaker. Other guests will be Aldermen George Brautigam and Edward Knuijt and Supervisor Mike Jacobs.

The Sacred Heart team was coached by Ralph Barfel this fall and won eight of eleven contests and scored 289 points against 155. Two of the defeats were at the hands of the Grove All-Stars of Menasha who outwitted the locals. The other defeat was at the hands of the Blue Eagles from Erb park, 7 to 0.

Barfel will coach the school's cagers this winter.

St. Norbert Bows to St. Joseph Gridders

Rensselaer, Ind. —(P)—A fourth quarter rally by St. Norbert college of De Pere, Wis., fell short Sunday and St. Joseph's college won the concluding football game on the schedules of both schools, 18 to 13.

The Knights went into the final period trailing 18-0. Both touchdowns were by McDaniels. McNulty added the extra point on a place kick.

Cornell, Tennessee, Texas A. and M. Remain Leaders in Respective Grid Areas

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK —(P)—Any college football team that can get this far in the season and still hang onto its ideas about winning a championship, or taking a nice trip to some bowl for the year-end holidays, generally is very stubborn about giving up such thoughts. Oklahoma's Sooners, intent upon showing Missouri's Paul Christman he couldn't pass sitting down, forgot Ronnie King could stand up and kick. As a result, they suffered their first defeat, 7-6, at Missouri's hands Saturday and a similar loss in national prestige.

A blocked kick, plus a hard-charging line and a superb pass defense, enabled once-beaten Duke to eliminate North Carolina from the unbeaten ranks, 13-3, and take the lead in the Southern conference race.

Otherwise, the national gridiron situation remained much the same as a week ago and shows signs of working toward a final decision only in a few scattered sections this week.

Cornell, Tennessee and Texas A. and M., held their places last week as national leaders among a dozen surviving unbeaten and untied teams, with Duquesne and Colorado Mines in second rank. The contenders for the Pacific coast conference title and a new year's day job in the Rose Bowl—Southern California and U. C. L. A.—were unbeaten, but tied, along with Tulane, Georgetown, Rutgers and Richmond.

More than a dozen big names in football, including Missouri, Ohio State, Duke and Notre Dame, were on the list of once-beaten teams that can hold up their heads in any company.

Title Games Coming Up
The first of this year's two Thanksgiving days, Nov. 23, doesn't cut much ice in this week's doings, but the Big Ten and Big Six titles come up for final settlement Saturday.

Surveying the situation by sections for the coming week:
East: Cornell's 26-0 rout of a good Dartmouth team convinced the few remaining doubters the big red team is the east's class. Cornell winds up the season Saturday against its traditional rival, Pennsylvania, which gave Michigan quite a tussle before going down, 19-17. It isn't hard to pick Cornell as the "try league" champion.

Duquesne, idle last Saturday faces Carnegie Tech, which took a 21-0 drubbing from Holy Cross. Georgetown, once tied, wound up its second straight unbeaten season with a 14-0 win over New York University.

Boston college, 19-0 winner over Boston U. and rival of Holy Cross for the "poison ivy" group's top ranking, takes on Kansas State in preparation for its Dec. 2 tussle with the Crusaders.
Princeton's Tigers took the "big three" crown by beating Yale, 13-7, and encounter Navy next. Yale and Harvard clash in their traditionally "big" game, in which all past records are forgotten. Penn State, which tied Army, 14-14, and Pittsburgh, beaten 14-13 by Nebraska, meet in another important contest, as do Colorado and Colgate, shut out 25-0 by Tulane and 7-0 by Syracuse, respectively.

Duke Looks Good
South: Duke figures to retain its Southern conference lead as it batters off after the North Carolina game by playing North Carolina State, which beat out Furman, 12-7, Richmond, unbeaten in the conference and in line for a share of the title, plays Thursday against William and Mary, which downed Washington and Lee, 18-14, for its first circuit victory.

Tennessee, despite its national prominence and 13-0 win over Vanderbilt, shares the Southeastern conference lead with Georgia Tech, 6-0 winner over Alabama. The Vols Turn to Page 16

Barn Tavern Breaks Even in Two Matches
Barn Tavern keggers broke even in two recent matches at Barn Tavern alleys as they downed Little Chute alleys by a count of 2,768 to 2,617 and bowed to Oshkosh Ladies by a score of 2,573 to 2,534.

L. Grishaber paced the Tavern squad against Little Chute with a 224 game and 589 series. R. Currie added 200 and 216 and P. Clausen singled 218. High for the losers was J. Lamers with a 203 game and 581 series.

D. Jiver paced the Oshkosh women with a 482 series and O. Suthern topped 196. R. Currie topped the losers with a 203 game and 570 series.

Lakeview No. 2 nosed out Lakeview No. 1, 2,138 to 2,102, in another match at Barn Tavern alleys as Odormann counted 520

Company D Cagers Lose to New London

Company D basketball team, just home from camp Saturday, probably was thinking about night hikes, extended order drill and such like when it invaded New London Sunday afternoon, for it dropped a 33 to 51 decision to the New London Miller High Life team.

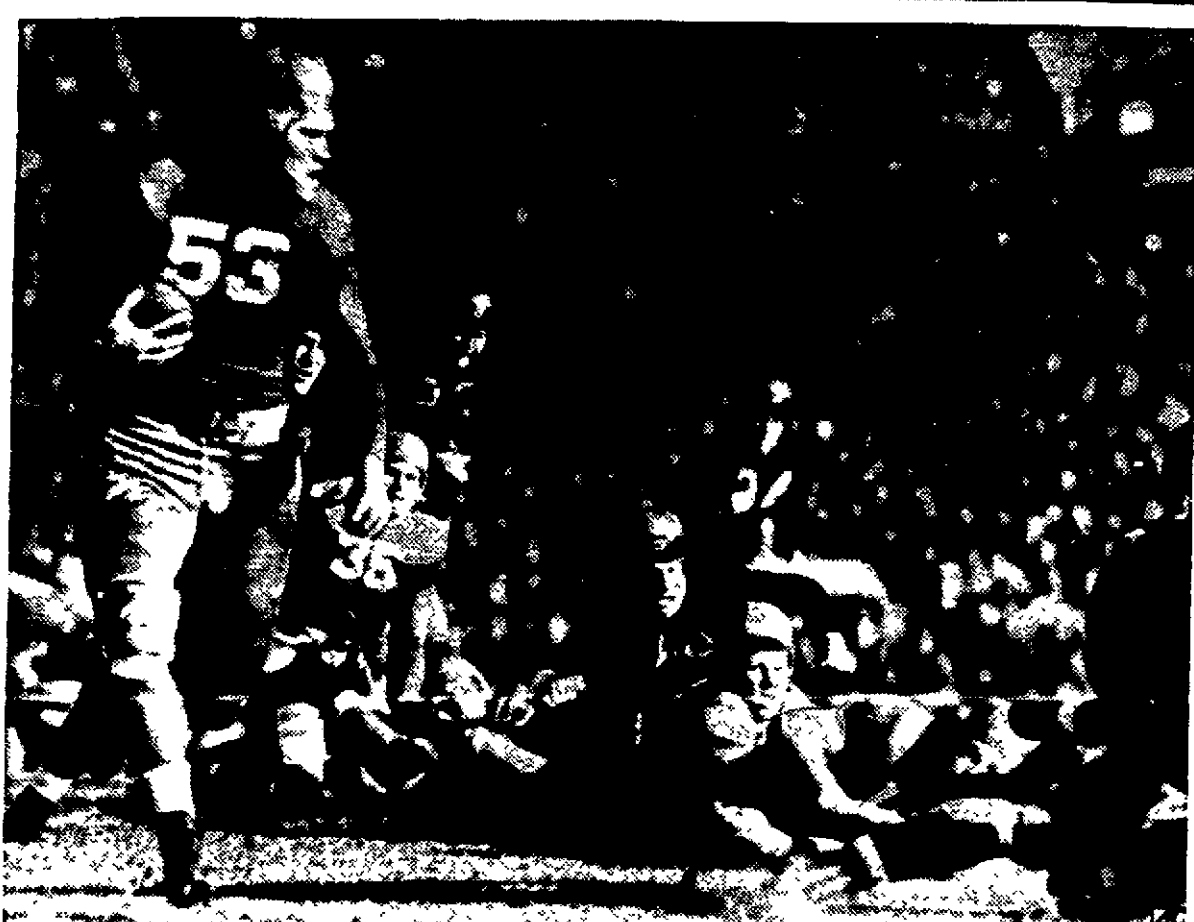

The lead changed often with New London ahead 9 to 6 at the quarter and 16 to 14 at the half. In the third quarter, the Guards were ahead by a 23 to 21 count. John Bauer's long shots featured the Guard offense. Gottgreu scored five baskets and two free throws for the New London five.

The teams will play again Thursday night at Appletown G after the Guard drill. The Soldiers are looking for games which can be arranged by contacting John Bauer or Norman Kneip.

Name Scouting Staff Of Philadelphia Nine

Philadelphia —(AP)—Promotion of Joe (Pat) O'Rourke to chief scout for the Philadelphia National league baseball club and appointment of two assistants was announced yesterday by President Gerry Nugent. O'Rourke's new assistants will be Clarence Pitt, former New York Giant outfielder, and Ralph G. Kimmel, instructor and baseball coach at Dupont Manual Training High school Louisville, Ky.

With would-be tacklers sprawled before him, Bob Peterson (No. 53), Wisconsin fullback, picked up four yards around right end against Purdue in Big Ten game at Madison. No. 35 is Claude York, Wisconsin quarterback and No. 27 is Felix Mackiewicz, Purdue end. The game ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

PATH CLEARED FOR BADGER BALL CARRIER

SEVERAL PERSONS HAVE ASKED US what we meant last week in this column when we said a few of the older Lawrence college gridders "knew the score" and probably didn't put out this fall as well as last year. We took it for granted the expression was common.

We meant just this: That some of the older members of the squad, knowing that Lawrence lacked a potent offense or that its pass defense wasn't so good, probably didn't play as hard in their respective positions as they did a year ago.

We went on further to say it's not a disgrace to be that type of player, that he is rather common. After all, if you work like a Trojan in the line only to have someone throw a forward pass into the backfield for the yardage you've been trying to defend, you lose spirit. Likewise, if you carry out an offensive assignment and someone gets things gummed up so that the play doesn't function.

You can recall major league baseball games or major league football games where the breaks all went against a team and as a result a player known to be a star slipped into mediocrity. That's the situation.

We watched the St. Louis Cardinals and Chicago Cubs one afternoon this summer. In the first frame the infield bobbled a couple balls, it developed the pitcher wasn't exactly effective and before the game was far along the Cards looked like bush leaguers and the Cubs won easily. Yet the next day the Cards were in stride again and won and continued that string of victories which almost won them the pennant. In the losing game with the Cubs the Cards "knew the score" for that day, and neither you nor I would have given a dime a dozen for Pitcher Curt Davis, Infielder Brown or Infielder Padgett.

Getting closer to home, we've seen basketball teams at Lawrence that were the same way and Art Denney can vouch for it. Some of the boys were good guards or good forwards but when they went through a season with the knowledge that they didn't have a center who could equal the competition they didn't look so good.

Perhaps you could key them for a game or for two games and they'd play over their heads to the point where they "carried" the weak link in the club. But generally, they played ball under their usual standards.

And again, that's how we felt about some of the Viking gridders. Tom Walsh, Chicago, named president of the Professional Golfers association last week, is the oldest brother of Frank Walsh who was pro at Butte des Morts the first five years of the club's life.

Joe Shields hit upon the idea a few years back that the Fox River Valley conference and Big Eight conference basketball teams should clash each year, the pairings being determined by the position in the standings. Now Art Daley of the Fond du Lac Commonwealth Reporter, has come to bat with a suggestion for a Cheese Bowl game featuring the football champions of the two leagues. He's getting a lot of ink of the idea — if nothing else.

As Others See Us — ART DALEY Fond du Lac Reporter

"Incidentally, the athletic department at Appletown has notified the Appletown board of education that something should be done about the inter-scholastic athletic situation at the local school or Appletown should drop out of the conference."

"Fond du Lac was in the same spot about two years ago but didn't mention dropping out of the conference."

"Supt. I. P. Goodrich said the other day that 'we're finally out of the football dumps.' Track was never in the 'dumps,' so to speak, and the only sport remaining is basketball."

JOHN WALTER Green Bay Press-Gazette
"Appletown, although its total number of conference championships in football, basketball and track is exceeded only by that of Green Bay East, has not won a track title since 1937 nor a basketball crown since 1935. The Terrors never have finished first in football."

"Principal Hebl made four suggestions to the board. . . . Now, this puts the issue directly up to the Appletown board of education, and if the persons of that community don't do something to protect their athletic interests, and those of their boys, the city is likely to waver in one sweet mess."

"The first of the four suggestions is ridiculous. Just because the men responsible for higher education in Appletown lack the foresight to develop an athletic program in the grade schools, is no reason why all other cities should foster a similarly backward attitude. For that matter, even if they wanted to, Green Bay schools would be unable to type out the splendidly functioning football, basketball and track programs in our public and parochial grade schools, which send hundreds of youngsters into high school fully prepared to take their places upon varsity teams of the future."

"But the next two suggestions are pertinent. Appletown badly needs a junior high school athletic setup which will instill fundamentals into its kids before they reach high school age, and if the junior high schools can't handle it themselves, then the senior high school should be permitted to take them over."

"The last suggestion may be the only alternative, but it is a tragic one. Were Appletown an athletically decadent community, which it emphatically is not, one might think that the city well could withdraw from Valley conference competition. But its record is too proud, too ancient."

DEER MUST BE OUTSMARTED FOR SUCCESSFUL HUNTING
By Cal Johnson
DEER may get lulled into a sense of security during the vacation months when about the only people they encounter are those who exclaim with ohs and ahs over the beauty of the graceful creatures, but once the hunters start laying down their barrels when the open season arrives deer become far different and more wary than simple to approach.

Veteran hunters go into a deer country with an all-around knowledge of the terrain and the runways of the deer which make the territory their stamping ground. They study at first hand, or through the advice of a competent guide, just where the deer are most likely to travel. They know where deer cross good hiding spots, where they feed, and where they cross ridges to take a peek at the surrounding country.

Further the hunters who use the practice of waiting for the approach of deer on a "stand," make certain that wind direction is going to be favorable and have an alternate location for their stand if the wind is going to warn the deer on the favorite spot. Deer are keen and alert during the hunting season and must be outsmarted for success.

I have found that almost without exception deer travel in the same general direction once the hunting season starts. A few years ago I hunted on the border between the northern part of Wisconsin and the Upper Peninsula of Michigan when the seasons followed one another. While there was legal shooting in Michigan the deer legally headed for the nearby Wisconsin forests and they reversed the process as soon as matter quieted down in Michigan and began to get warm in Wisconsin.

For a solid week when we were hunting near Kentuck Lake in Wisconsin all of the deer tracks were headed northward toward safety in the Wolverine state. If the deer didn't know their stuff and where they were out of danger then some very kind protecting angel was sending them the right way.

It is also the sensible thing to find out what time of day the deer are moving the most. They don't keep on the go all day and there is no sense in staying out freezing when there is little likelihood of getting a shot at an antlered buck.

I have also found that waiting on a stand is surer than hiking out after deer, few of us have the stalking ability of a Leatherstocking and we are bound to make noise.

don't play again until they meet Kentucky the second Thanksgiving, Nov. 30. Meanwhile, Tech faces Florida, which turned in a rather surprising 13-0 victory over Miami. Tulane, also very much in the title picture, has a workout listed against the Citadel, 14-7. Auburn-Georgia and Mississippi-Mississippi State were other conference pairings.

Midwest: Ohio State can't get worse than a tie for the Big Ten title as a result of Saturday's 21-0 victory over Illinois. And even if the Buckeyes blow their climax game with Michigan, they won't be tied until Iowa gets past the Northwest-Sewanee, just good enough to beat the Citadel, 14-7. Auburn-Georgia and Mississippi-Mississippi State were other conference pairings.

Pacific coast: Although held to a scoreless tie by Santa Clara, a tough opponent for anybody, U. C. L. C. and handed California a 21-0 lacing Saturday. The classic Stanford-California tussle has the status of a cellar-championship affair, as the Indians lost, 7-0, to Washington State. Oregon and Washington play Thursday, as do San Jose State and Fresno State, two of the unbeaten and untied little fellows.

Rocky Mountain Big Seven: Colorado's 12-6 triumph over Brigham Young gave the Buffs a clear lead in the Big Seven league, with Denver and Utah tied for second. Utah moved up with a 42-7 win over Colorado State and the week encounters Utah State, 20-13, winner over Wyoming. Denver plays Idaho Thursday as a warmup for the title scrap with Colorado a week later.

Notre Dame, the mighty "independent," faces Southern California in a game that comes close to being the week's standout. Michigan State plays Temple in another inter-sectional tilt.

Southwest: The all-conquering Texas Aggies are idle until they meet Texas Nov. 30. Baylor's Bears will make another bid to stay in the running for the Southwest conference title when they meet Southern Methodist. Baylor beat Centenary, 13-6, in a non-conference game; the Mustangs were upset victims of Arkansas, 14-0, Friday. Rocky Mountain Big Seven: Colorado's 12-6 triumph over Brigham Young gave the Buffs a clear lead in the Big Seven league, with Denver and Utah tied for second. Utah moved up with a 42-7 win over Colorado State and the week encounters Utah State, 20-13, winner over Wyoming. Denver plays Idaho Thursday as a warmup for the title scrap with Colorado a week later.

Southwest: The all-conquering Texas Aggies are idle until they meet Texas Nov. 30. Baylor's Bears will make another bid to stay in the running for the Southwest conference title when they meet Southern Methodist. Baylor beat Centenary, 13-6, in a non-conference game; the Mustangs were upset victims of Arkansas, 14-0, Friday. Rice, latest victim of the Aggies, 19-0, plays Texas Christian, which went down, 25-19, before Texas Tech, beaten by Marquette, 22-19, meets another inter-sectional foe, Montana.

Midwest: Ohio State can't get worse than a tie for the Big Ten title as a result of Saturday's 21-0 victory over Illinois. And even if the Buckeyes blow their climax game with Michigan, they won't be tied until Iowa gets past the Northwest-Sewanee, just good enough to beat the Citadel, 14-7. Auburn-Georgia and Mississippi-Mississippi State were other conference pairings.

Pacific coast: Although held to a scoreless tie by Santa Clara, a tough opponent for anybody, U. C. L. FREEDOM—Lawrence Springstroh sizzled a 240 game and a 610 series for individual honors during recent Men's league matches at Vandenberg's alleys. Top team totals were registered by Plamann Truckers with a 933 game and 2,675 series.

Jacks Bar Rags made it three straight over Mike's Millers as Bill Carney pounded a total of 538. Elmer Verhagen was high for the losers with a 193 game and 531 total.

Schommer Insurance increased their league lead with a 3-game victory over Weyers Imp. Co. Hank Schommer topped the winners with a 221 game and a 591 total. Al Van Weterling led the losers with a 537 total.

Two games went to Plamann Truckers in a tiff with Freedom High. Lawrence Springstroh paced the winners with 203, 240 and 610 while John Murphy counted a 562 total for the losers.

Geenen's Grocers scored a 2-game win over Van's Alleys as Art Coffey grooved a 195 game and a 531 series. Mart Vandenberg showed a 519 series for the losers.

Schommer Grocers downed Nic's Tavern in two games as John Schommer totaled 555 for the winners. Tops for the losers were Carl Grever with a 201 game and a 525 total.

Schouten's Oils' grand slammed Schommer's Tavern in all three games as John Byrne toppled a 565 total for the winners. High for the losers was Les Nuban with a 185 game and a 530 series.

Colorado Griddler Takes Scoring Lead

New York—If the people of Golden, Colo., elect Coach Johnny Mason mayor, they should erect a statue to its ablest pupil, Lloyd Madden.

For while Mason has tutored Colorado Mines into its first Rocky Mountain conference football title in decades, Madden has given the school its first national football scoring leader history.

The husky Colorado halfback, in eight games, has scored 19 touchdowns and booted three extra points for a total of 117 points. That gave him leadership over Don Lieberum, Manchester (Ind.) captain, who also has made 19 touchdowns, but who has no conversions to his credit.

Lieberum has been the scoring leader almost since the start of the season, although Madden drew within shouting distance a week ago when he scored six times against Western state of Gunnison, Colo.

Chandler to Miss 3 M. U. Cage Veterans

Milwaukee—(P)—As basketball stepped into the athletic spotlight at Marquette University today, Coach Bill Chandler set about to attempt the replacement of a trio of veterans who for three seasons have been the backbone of the blue and gold quintet.

Chandler's lost stars are Dave Quabius, guard who broke up more than one game with a long basket; Glenn (Sparky) Adams, a forward, and Erwin (Moose) Graf, center, who now is an assistant coach.

"These boys," Chandler said, "simply can't be replaced in one year."

The annual alumni game comes up Saturday night. The first inter-collegiate game brings Ripon college here Dec. 2.

Spirit Plays Big Part in Boys Town 5-Year Record

OMAHA, Neb.—The cold type of the record book shows the football team from Father Flanagan's famed Boys Town—an institution for homeless boys—hasn't lost a game in five years. Thirty-five in a row was the victory record to mid-November.

But the record book doesn't tell the spirit that has kept the small squads winning against bigger and more experienced players and against a year by year stronger list of high school opponents.

"We win on spirit and unity," said soft spoken, stocky Ken Corcoran, the coach.

Corcoran "Corky" to his 28 players drawn from 70 eligibles said "we work a long time before the boys get a play perfect, but when they do, it's perfect!"

THESING GAINS FOR NOTRE DAME

Three burly Northwestern players collaborated to stop Joe Thesing after he had made a short gain in the first quarter of game at South Bend. Thesing is almost hidden from view by his tacklers. No. 40 is Frank Young, Northwestern tackle. Notre Dame won the contest, 7 to 0.

Pres. Hutchins Alarmed Over Chicago's Victory

NEW YORK—(P)—Powell Crosland, Jr., owner of the Cincinnati Reds, has been ordered to Florida for a complete rest. . . . They say President Hutchins is really alarmed about the 25 points his U of Chicago football team scored Saturday. . . . Attention, Dodgers: Bill Terry is reported ready to join in the bidding for Joe Medwick.

Mrs. Nellie Anderson last Wednesday gave a farewell party at her home in Butternut Ridge before closing her home and going to Ogdensburg to reside with her daughter Mrs. George Farley. An old-fashioned quilting bee was held.

A large crowd attended the bazaar and program at the Lyndwood school Friday evening. It was given by the Lyndwood Woman's club. Bunker Hill school, of which Mrs. Fred Woolsey is teacher, held its second Community meeting Friday evening.

Mrs. John Wilke who has been a surgical patient in the Waupaca hospital, has returned this week to her home at Butternut Ridge. The November meeting of the Northport Community club was held on Thursday evening.

After two months in the west where he was employed on the Coulee dam, Garry Wilson has returned to his home at Northport. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Manny have moved from a farm in the town of Lind to Waupaca.

A. N. Johnson and family have moved from the Scranton farm near here, to the town of Harrison. An auction of machinery, feed, hay, grain, six horses and twenty-eight head of cattle was held Monday on the William Schoenick farm in this township by Mrs. Golda Gutbrod.

LaFollette Opposes Transfer of Ships

Milwaukee—(P)—Senator Robert M. LaFollette in an interview last night expressed the hope that the national administration would not permit the transfer of registry of American boats to violate the spirit of the neutrality act. "I take the position," LaFollette said, "that the transfer of American-owned vessels to foreign registry for the purpose of operating those ships by American interests in the dangerous areas to carry on trade with belligerents is a violation of the spirit of the neutrality act. "It was obviously the intent of congress to keep American interests from engaging in that dangerous trade." LaFollette said the senate civil liberties committee which he heads would reconvene in California in December to investigate alleged efforts to prevent free organization of labor. He expects to leave Wisconsin about Dec. 1.

Boasts Coeds of Chicago College 'Ooze With Oomph'

Chicago—(P)—Student editor William Pollak boasted today that the coeds of Chicago Teachers college fairly ooze with "oomph." "Pretty girls, and brassy, too, abound," he wrote in the current issue of Tempo, the college newspaper, and offered as evidence pictures of a half-dozen of the fairest, for first hand inspection. However, young Mr. Pollak ventured far from his own campus to assert that, generally, the girl in training to become a teacher these days is a combination business woman and movie star. The old conception of teacher as Miss Prim, a spinster with a vinegar face that stopped the clock in the little red schoolhouse, is, in Pollak's opinion, an outdated picture that should be buried. Instead, he wrote, the modern teachers' college coed has brains, charm, personality, grace, glamor, sophistication and appeal.

Miners Get Turkeys For Safety Records

Iron River, Mich.—(P)—One thousand families of this district whose breadwinners are employed at iron mines will sit down to turkey dinners Thursday, thanks to the safety record of the past year. Two of the largest operators, M. A. Hanna company and Michigan Mather company, announced that each employee would receive a turkey in recognition of safety efforts.

PLEASED TO MEET HIM

Richmond, Va.—(P)—Friends of C. S. Mullen, chief engineer of the Virginia state highway department, are planning a coming out party at which they will introduce him to himself. During a recent meeting of the American Association of State Highway Officials he listened to a recorded radio broadcast in which he had taken part. He could identify all voices except one, which turned out to be his own. That's nothing, said his wife. She reported that in reading a paper he said a picture was familiar. The photo was of Mullen himself.

Badger Supporters of McNutt Are Confused Over Procedure

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Washington—Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt turns aside with a laugh all questions about whether he has discussed the Wisconsin political situation with President Roosevelt. Wisconsin supporters of McNutt for president are known to be in a quandary. Will they put a slate of McNutt delegates in the field and face a possibility that a "Pledged to Roosevelt Policies" slate will run against them in April primaries? Will they "go along" with the New Dealers who want the Wisconsin delegation to go to the Democratic national convention next year simply pledged to the Roosevelt policies? Some of the McNutt advocates have been trying to convince New Dealers here, who are still hoping for a third term, that Wisconsin voters recent having a slate of delegates without the name of the candidate for whom they are pledged listed on the ballot. Could Transfer Votes Thus, they argue, why not have a McNutt delegation, inasmuch as the former Indiana governor has said he would not be a candidate if the president seeks reelection. Then, they continue, McNutt could turn his delegates over to the president before a convention ballot is cast, if the president wants the nomination.

Hollywood—A year or so ago, the citizens of Studio City elected Hugh Herbert "Mayor"—just a gag, of course, for Studio City, being inside the Los Angeles limits has no corporate entity of its own. But Hugh, whose asinine "Woo-woos" camouflage a very level head, refused to regard his appointment as a gag. Studio City, like all mushroom communities, had a host of problems. For example, traffic conditions, due to its location on two principal, high-speed thoroughfares, were particularly bad. Hugh set himself the task of correcting that. One thing led to another—there were zoning ordinances to fight for and against, public utility needs to be met, school crossings to be adequately guarded. Before the screen's dullest comic had worn his honorary title for a month, he was working like a beaver, devoting all of his spare time to the community's work. And I'm sure no salaried "politician" ever accomplished more laudable results. Studio City owes Hugh a heavy debt of gratitude.

IDOL CHATTER: A whole month and not one engagement rumor for Dorothy Lamour—is she slipping? Nominated for Hollywood's hard-luck championship: John Beal—a fine actor who's seldom given opportunity to prove it. You could count the eligible bachelors who haven't dated Sonja Henie on the fingers of one hand—and still thumb a ride. Most interesting anecdotalist: Vic McLaglen after the third highball. Surest way to Olympie Bradna's smiles is a speaking acquaintance with France—she likes to practice. Hena Massey reminds me of Strauss waltzes—and vice versa.

Headlines about Garbo's newest "romance" remind me of the great to-do made about her dates. Last year, with a Swedish visitor named Ennar Nerman. Gossips who predicted matrimony on that occasion will be surprised next week when Mr. Nerman again visits Garbo—accompanied, this time, by his wife and three children!

Here's irony. Frank Borzage, visiting a local polo field, found Spencer Tracy booted and spurred and ready to play. "You can't do it," protested Borzage. "If you're hurt, you'll hold up work on your picture for weeks!" Reluctantly, Spence agreed. Borzage took his place—and is now directing "Strange Cargo," from a wheel chair. Donates $10,000 to

Orphans in Kentucky
Lexington, Ky.—Colonel R. Bradley, whose horses have won more Kentucky derby races than any other owner, today set aside his annual contribution of $10,000 for Kentucky orphans and other indigent children.

Checks are being mailed for Thanksgiving and Christmas celebrations to various charitable and educational institutions, as is his custom.

The Bradley fund has been a part of the holiday observance in Kentucky since the noted sportsman inaugurated what now amounts to tradition by contributing in 1921 the purse won by his fleet three-year-old filly, Bit O'White, in the Louisville cup race.

Interrupted only during 1928-30 when the colonel sponsored and paid the expenses of charity races, meetings from which all the proceeds were applied to the more charitable cause, Bradley has donated at least $10,000 annually for holiday enjoyment of children.
